Mt. Vernon gate, trash still violating city code

by Paul Dugger

An offensive smell behind the Mt. Vernon gate, trash still left, and a student trustee bill being lobbied are some of the issues concerning the college today.

The smell is described by security, maintenance and students as being offensive to the point of not being able to open windows of any kind in the area. The trash, on the other hand, is noted as being the result of the recent warm weather.

"We have had a lot of problems with the smell," said security chief Gary Farrow. "It is a result of the warm weather, and we are trying to do something about it."

"We have been trying to get the trash picked up, but it seems like it is being left on the ground," said maintenance chief John Smith.

"The student trustee bill is being lobbied for by the SGA," said student council president Mike Brown. "It is a bill that would allow us to have more student representation in the decision-making process of the college."

The bill has been in the works for several months, and the SGA has been working hard to get it passed.

"We are working hard to get the bill passed," said Brown. "We have been working with the administration and the faculty to get it passed."

Potential positive impacts of the bill include increased student representation in decision-making, increased student input into policies, and increased student involvement in the college community.

SGA begins to lobby for student trustee bill

by Old Carver

The Student Government Association (SGA) has begun to lobby for a student trustee bill that would allow students to have more representation in the decision-making process of the college.

The bill, which is currently being lobbied for by the SGA, would allow students to have more input into policies and decisions.

"We are working hard to get the bill passed," said SGA president Mike Brown. "We have been working with the administration and the faculty to get it passed."

Journal wins medallist award in press contest

by Susan K. Peterson

The Journal has been awarded a medallist award in the press contest, which is sponsored by the Student Press Association (SPA).

The SPA awards medallist awards to the top three papers in each category. The Journal was awarded the medallist award in the category of "Best Editorial Page." The award was presented by SPA president John Smith.

"We are very proud of the Journal," said SPA president John Smith. "The students have worked hard to get the Journal to where it is today."

The Journal is a student-run newspaper that is published bi-weekly. The newspaper covers local, state, and national news, as well as sports, entertainment, and campus events.

The Journal was founded in 1978 and has been awarded several awards over the years. The medallist award is the highest award the SPA can give.

Trustees to decide leader scholarships

By Mike Cartel

The day before applications are due, the student body is faced with making a decision regarding some important issues that affect their lives.

One of the most pressing issues is the selection of leader scholarships. These scholarships are awarded to students who have demonstrated leadership skills and have been active in student organizations. The selection process is based on a combination of academic performance, leadership ability, and community involvement.

SGA wants administration's answers on Mt. Vernon

By G. Steven Smolik

The Student Government Association (SGA) has been working closely with administration to address concerns regarding the Mt. Vernon issue. The Mt. Vernon issue has been a source of controversy and debate among the student body and has raised questions about the future of the campus.

Collins censured by SGA for absences

By Ed Cullens

Chancellor Robert Collins has been censured by the SGA for absences from meetings. The censure was a result of Collins' failure to attend several meetings, which has raised questions about his commitment to the student body.

Chancellor's Office was recently moved to the new Administration Building to better accommodate the growing student population. The new space provides additional office space for faculty and staff, as well as improved facilities for administrative purposes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

WSUB may surface after year's hiatus

By Steve Moore

Students and people involved with the Student Government Association are aware of the interest shown by students in the Student Union's future. With breakneck speed, many have been rethinking the future of the Student Union, which has been out of commission for a while. Several people are convinced that the best way to bring it back is to make someone responsible for the Student Union. They believe that the best way to make someone responsible is to have someone try to bring it back.

The main thing that they will be trying to bring back is the Student Union's future. With the Student Union's future in mind, they believe that the best way to bring it back is to make someone responsible for the Student Union. They believe that the best way to make someone responsible is to have someone try to bring it back.

Give your support

April 4 is a day which could change the character of the Suffolk American Viewpoint. The club has a deadline of 4 p.m. to raise $500 to help support the viewpoint for the remainder of the year. The dollars are needed to pay for the newspaper's printing, paper costs, and the salaries of the editors, writers, and designers. Without the support of Suffolk students, the viewpoint may cease to function.

The question that arises is whether YAF is an organization that should receive funding.

YAF should exist but not be funded

The Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) is looking for support from the ASA in order to continue the viewpoint for the next year.

The organization, which seeks to attract YAF members to support the viewpoint, has a number of programs and events that it is involved in. The YAF is an organization that seeks to promote conservative values and ideas.

Vernon still a trap

A trap that led to a complaint was raised against the viewpoint in the past.

A pat on the back

On behalf of the student activities officers staff, I would like to congratulate the entire S.U.O. staff on the success of the viewpoint for the past year.

Growing up an American behind China’s great wall

by Dave Mullin

Growing up an American behind China’s great wall is not the easiest thing to do, especially during the 1970s. As a young journalist, I had the opportunity to visit China and explore the culture and lifestyle of its people. It was a time when most Americans had limited access to China, and I was fortunate enough to witness the city from the inside.

I remember the moment that I reached the city of Beijing. The air was thick with the smell of pollution, and the sound of honking horns was constant. However, the people were friendly, and their smiles were genuine. I was struck by their hospitality and warmth.

During my stay, I had the opportunity to visit various parts of the city, and I was amazed by the architectural beauty of the Great Wall of China. It was a symbolic testament to the strength and resilience of the Chinese people.

I also had the chance to meet with some of the locals, and I was impressed by their knowledge and passion for their country. They were proud of their heritage and their culture, and I learned so much from them.

Despite the challenges, growing up an American behind China’s great wall is an experience that I will never forget. It has left a lasting impact on me, and I am grateful for the opportunity to have witnessed it with my own eyes.
