Review board probing SGA member's record

by Maria Girvin

The student judiciary review board (SJR) has been requested by the Student Government Association (SGA) to look into the suspension of a SGA member, according to SGA View President, Robert McCarthy who also sits on the SJR.

Ralphhyne Class President Sean Randall is being investigated for profanity violation of Article II, Section 3 of the Student Government Association's constitution, which forbids the SGA member to use foul or abusive language in a public meeting. Randall has been charged with two counts of profanity.

The SJR should consider the possibility of such a violation. According to the SJR's procedure handbook, any violation described in the constitution or by the SJR would be allowed to go forward to the next step.

The SJR has the power to consider the possibility of such a violation. According to the SJR's procedure handbook, any violation described in the constitution or by the SJR would be allowed to go forward to the next step.

Charles River offices may move to new site

by Doug Lombrich

The university is currently exploring the possiblity of moving the Charles River offices of the Student Government Association (SGA) to a new location on the campus.

The SGA is currently located in the old Charles River building, but the university is considering moving the offices to a new location on the campus.

The SGA is currently located in the old Charles River building, but the university is considering moving the offices to a new location on the campus.

Three bills filed to aid private universities

by Frank Cypel

In an effort to attract more students to private universities, the Massachusetts legislature has introduced three bills that would provide financial aid to students attending private universities.

The bills proposed by the Massachusetts legislature would provide a $1,000 per student grant to students attending private universities. The grants would be available to students attending private universities in Massachusetts.

The bills proposed by the Massachusetts legislature would provide a $1,000 per student grant to students attending private universities. The grants would be available to students attending private universities in Massachusetts.

FM experience for students

by Tom O'Garden

The University of Massachusetts is currently exploring the possibility of establishing a radio station at the school. The station would provide an opportunity for students to gain experience in the field of radio broadcasting.

The University of Massachusetts is currently exploring the possibility of establishing a radio station at the school. The station would provide an opportunity for students to gain experience in the field of radio broadcasting.

Corner View

by Tom O'Garden

The University of Massachusetts is currently exploring the possibility of establishing a radio station at the school. The station would provide an opportunity for students to gain experience in the field of radio broadcasting.
SGA okays Council's funding of social events

by Nina Gaeta

A President's Council proposal, setting aside 10 percent of the Council's budget for social activities, was supported by the Student Government Association at its meeting last week.

It was the first of three proposals, all supported, that the SGA made to the Council last week. The SGA had already voted to cut the number of social events, and the third proposal, to cut the number of events by half, was rejected.

Senior representative Kevin Boettich was absent from the meeting because he was attending a conference in Washington, D.C. A special election will be held to find someone to take his place on the SGA. Boettich was nominated by the other members of the Council as well as by the executive board.

McCarty, who was the only president not to vote on the proposals, said, "I don't mind being the only president not to vote on the proposals, but I think it's important to have some representation from all the different committees."

The proposal to cut the number of social events was supported by the Student Government Association, but rejected by the Council.

Student government association president, Donald A. Allen, said, "I don't think it's fair to cut the number of social events without consulting the students."

In other action, the Council discussed the possibility of allocating funds for events. The two alternatives are that the Council will fund all social events, or that the funds will be allocated to the events that are deemed to be of the most value to the students.

The Council also discussed the possibility of sending a questionnaire to the students to determine which events they would like to see funded.

COUNCIL PRESIDENT: Paul Pappas says that the Council would like to hear from the students regarding which events should be funded.

Say, "pip!"

Preparation and Printing of RESUMES

FINE MATCHED PAPER AND ENVELOPES

523-3355

NICK RAKER

POSTAL INSTANT PRESS

4 Somerset Street

Boston, Massachusetts 02108
Ashburton building reveals old relics

by John Atkinson

The first step of renovating the Ashburton Place building have begun in the removal of valuations from the building’s premises, but according to Cambridge Housing (the agency that funds, “It’s... as it was.”)

More than the building was the headquarters for the United Way of Massachusetts Bay, Inc. It is also well known for the original building of the State Run Club (SRC) from 1913 until 1960. While property of the SRC, many prominent gay clubs dined at the 1951 old building.

According to SGA President Robert McCarthy, new student leadership positions should be funded through student work-study funding.

The SGA Vice President Roberts McCardy also discussed the results of the ongoing proposal of the SRC to remove any student leadership positions towards any student leadership funding.

The proposal’s effect would be that the SRC can maintain an effective student body and make the organization more efficient. Engineering and social studies students should be encouraged through the organization and funded through the SRC.

Events/Activities
Thurs. Jan. 24 1:30 p.m.

Women’s Program Center “Alcoholism Program” F338B 1:30 p.m.

LGBTQ Society Eason Shakasphere Company F336B 1:30 p.m.

CARE presents a film — Auditorium 1:30 p.m.

CAPI presents forum for discussion on relation of Addiction to America’s Socioeconomic problems F303 1:30 p.m.

Tues. Jan. 22 1:30 p.m.

FS30 Cheerleading

Aud. Literary Society

SCR. Student Government Meeting

Thurs. Jan. 19 1:30 p.m.

F338B International Student Assoc.

F320 Young Americans for Freedom

FS30 Cheerleading
Smorgasbord of courses offered in new Mini-Course Program

by Jeff Putnam

Interested in learning how to tend bar? How about discovering the basis of broadcasting, the art of human relations, or the techniques of writing effective speeches? If so, this semester's Mini-Course Program, sponsored by the Student Activities Office, probably has a course for you. In addition to broadcasting, human relations, and writing, mini-courses in leadership training, dramatic leadership, self-defense for women, interviewing, poetry of the sea, usage of the four literary, and reviews for the LSAT and GMAT examinations will also be offered.

Registration for the programs will be held until Jan. 31. In the Student Activities office, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Many course coordinators Robert McElravy says that the mini-courses are open to students interested.

The fee for the mini-courses from three to five hours will be $1.50 for the LSAT and GMAT offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the war's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

All of the courses will be taught at the University of New England, except for the broadcasting course, which will be taught by the Harvard Broadcasting Institute at Harvard University.

McElravy says that the courses are planned to present basic educational, self-improvement, athletic, and social awareness in formation.

New Jerusalem

mentioned from page 1

"It was a great idea, but I wouldn't put the computer in the hallway. I was trying to make it work for everyone. He added, "I don't know whether they would want to do activities in that building."

Poetry was not as interested in using the computer for classroom games, he said, "It would be difficult to maneuver the computer for educational use. It is unsuitable for the teaching regulations which will prevent the university from using the space for educational purposes.

Director of Student Activities, Thomas Anderson, said he felt bad about the computer not being in the main building at the beginning and it was used as though the computer was the priority, but added, that it would be used partly in the activities space. He stated that it would be good in the future if the computer is installed, "But the computer is not to be the main idea," Anderson added.

AN UNLIKELY SITE for student activities, says Virge Penrose and Treasure Frank X. Powne, about the New Jerusalem Church.

Powne said there is a good possibility that they may get over the church but he said it depends on who moves the basement in the church which must be moved to accommodate the university's needs. The New Jerusalem Church is located at 716 River Plaza.

Billy

returned from page 1

legislation in MST if there were not a change in the use of the building in the state. Last year, the bill failed, because the state had no interest in the LSAT and GMAT of the Honors legislation.

This year with the open lines, the state has decided to offer both the upper and lower of the LSAT and GMAT offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.

The state has decided to offer both the upper and lower offices, which are taught by Fred Peppert, the state's previous highest last permanent winner in the LSAT and GMAT.
SGA finally buckles down

The Student Government Association has not had much success this year with anything except some minor events. The SGA altered the first semester's impressive list of important issues such as student representation on the Board of Trustees and service scholarship, but have not addressed any of the major issues on their agenda.

On the whole, the SGA's problems this term, the SGA took a cautious approach by basing its decisions on the recommendations of its committees. The Student Government Association was not set up to address the major issues of the university, but rather to serve as a liaison between students and administration.

The student body seems to blame the SGA for its problems. This year, the SGA has seen a decrease in the number of students who are interested in its meetings. This is the result of the SGA's inability to make decisions on important issues, which has led to a decrease in student interest.

Whether the SGA had a legitimate reason for not making the meetings or deciding on an issue is not clear. What is certain is that the student body is not happy with the SGA's performance.

What cannot be denied is that a situation exists which is detrimental to the student body. Many students who were interested in the SGA meetings are not interested in the SGA at all, and the meetings have become more and more irrelevant.

The Student Body needs to realize that it is not the SGA's fault that the meetings are not attended by many students. Many students have become disillusioned with the SGA and are not interested in its meetings.

SGA rep speaks out...

SGA rep speaks out...

Editor:

I would like to make a correction to the article that appeared in the Daily Delight on Jan. 17, 1983. Although Allen Woodrow did an excellent job of reporting, there were some discrepancies in what he quoted. I would like to point out the following:

1. The SGA is not a part of the university administration. They are not able to make decisions that affect the student body. They are only able to make recommendations to the administration.

2. SGA meetings are open to all students and are not exclusive to a certain group of students.

3. The SGA is not responsible for the administration of the university. The administration is responsible for the university's policies and procedures.

4. The SGA is not a service-oriented organization. They are there to serve the student body, but they are not able to do so effectively.

I hope that this clarification will help to clear up any misconceptions that may have been created by the article.

Douglas White

Student Government Association

...and co-chairman clears things up...

Editor:

I would like to correct the information that was presented in the article. According to the information presented, the SGA is responsible for the administration of the university. However, the SGA is only able to make recommendations to the administration, and the administration is responsible for the university's policies and procedures.

I hope that this clarification will help to clear up any misconceptions that may have been created by the article.
Successful Bette does things her own way

by Andrew Gidds

She steps off her own way by saying about herself, "Well, Bette, it's no more to have me back where I belong!"

The people sitting at tables clapping along the sides, other their drinks, and they glowering back to the eager and restless business of Bette's Raffles Room.

Bette Around, same usual lead the crowd to buy a large, large bill from one side to another, making sure everyone is having a good time. Taler, this is important. "If you're having fun, the money will come readily."

Bette believes that her establishment should have a personal image. "Everyone knows that I own the restaurant," says Bette, who takes an active role in running her business. She feels that this makes a big difference.

Just as famous as Bette, in her seventy year Raffles Room, is actually packed front of the restaurant on Union St. In Boston with an equally famous parking ticket on it. At the moment, however, the "37 Rolls is in the movie shop having some party work done."

"There are other ways to advertise and I am a perfect example of that."

Bette laugh, when she says, "I find it more a way to market my business to support the image of the business."

There are other ways to advertise, and I am a perfect example of that. The Rolls are the key to the greenery. A single roll of paper, is the "spice that makes it all differ." The Rolls are expensive but they will remember an image in a newspaper.

The remaining controversy over the numerous parking tickets the car has received and Bette's battle with the city over them, works in her favor because of the few publicists for the restaurant. She does not mind, because she claims, "I am not advanced of my establishments.""

Bette proudly states, "I was the first one in this city to say I want to advertise my business. I've sold thousands of them."

Bette nervous, need to be different. In perhaps she still does up a baking beauty. Her employees are playing off of girls, but Bette shape is an expression of being above average. "I put on the floor..."

"I love being a hostess. I would think nothing of giving a party for 300 people."..."

showed. "When I go to a party, if somebody is wearing a hat, I will wear one, and if everybody is wearing hats, I won't. "But, that's the thing to do. It puts and wins things."

Another thing that makes Bette different is that her ex-husband and her present husband are very good friends. The first husband also works for her. "The two of them work together, they play golf together, they even keep secrets from the other and that I don't like", Bette laughs.

"Any way, Bette was retired after selling her own church and sold out the business. "However, I neither liked or could afford retirement."

She recalled a friend who once talked of her that she would be a natural in a method magazine. "I pause frustrated in the back of my mind, sitting with the suggestions stove by her friend, Bette also had a long track toward giving parties. "I love being a hostess. I stored nothing of giving a party for 300 people. It meant more to me, for a while, I was the unofficial hostess of the State House."

This led to another reason for opening a restaurant. "I know a lot of people. I know all the politicians and everyone there all think a lot."

"I neither liked or could afford retirement."

"I had full responsibilities, even though it was a tremendous undertaking."

"Well, steadily, I knew nothing about the restaurant or liquor business."

"What is this?"

"Oh yes, it was fine. But it was fine."

"Yes, I read the magazine, but I didn't use it that."

In that one and only press, she was not successful. At first Bette's was a hit a lunch place. When she added a piano player and singing at night, the right side began to pick up. At the same time, her lunch business decreased. It was damaged even more when the Quincy Market area opened. It took away her lunch crowd, and helped her nighttime business."

With all her activities, it is only natural to hear Bette say, "I love life." She is interested in everything. She collects antiques, does, or original paintings, for rings. She has good movie, and she theater. She enjoys boxing and bowling.

"I love the T. V. shows. I want to go out to play along with the band," which her first husband manages. The only complaint is that she does not have much time to do all the things, but she does enjoy them. "I was born with imagination really."

"I'm a very good businesswoman."

She says, "I am the only natural to hear Bette say, "I love life.""
Signed, sealed, and delivered from a ghostwriter

by Gerry Lieberman

One day, May 28, 1959, President Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed the nation in a televised message from the White House. It was a historic occasion, the first time a U.S. president spoke to the American people from a television set. The broadcast was a testament to the power of television as a medium for reaching a broad audience.

In his address, Eisenhower spoke about the importance of foreign policy and the role of the United States in the world. He emphasized the need for peaceful coexistence and the importance of building alliances with other nations. The president's words were broadcast to millions of people across the country, and it was a defining moment in the history of television.

The broadcast was a success, and it paved the way for future presidential addresses to the nation. Since that time, television has become an integral part of American life, and it continues to play a crucial role in shaping public opinion and influencing political discourse.

However, the story of that day is not just about the address itself. It also tells us something about how television has changed over time. In the years since that 1959 address, technology has advanced significantly, and so has the way we consume media. Today, we can choose from a dizzying array of channels and platforms, each with its own unique perspective and agenda.

But despite these changes, the basic principles of good communication remain the same. Whether you're addressing a crowd of thousands or posting a video on social media, the key is to speak clearly and concisely, and to connect with your audience on a personal level. So, whether you're a presidential candidate or a local business owner, remember these lessons. And who knows? Maybe you'll end up delivering your message to millions of people, just like President Eisenhower did in 1959.

---

Students spell registration H—A—S—S—L—E

by Amy Krughegory

Well, the first two words of my spell renderer are: "Hail, Caesar!" And what a huge relief! Our students have been complaining about the spelling errors in their assignments, but thank goodness we finally did something about it.

From what I've heard, the students are happy with the new system. It's not only more accurate, but also more efficient. Plus, it saves us a ton of time grading papers.

I'm glad we finally took action. I've had enough of the complaints over the years. And I think the students will agree that this system is much better than anything we've had before.

SIR SPEEDY

THE full-service printer

Don't compromise on quality when you need your printing fast and inexpensive. From a simple Xerox top professional-quality offset we're here to help you. From one copy to 1,000 daily, 4-color proofs and quick proofs.

Offset Printing / Xerox / Copying / Binding
Computer Typesetting / Resume / Legal Broads
227-2237
44 School Street, Boston, MA

Image cutting

wah & wear cuts for long and short hair

Daily 9-7
Sat til 5
20% OFF with this ad
223 Newbury 536-1605
(offer expires 2/19/80)
Rams hold off Bisons, Miller in great game, 77-76

by Stephen P. DelMarco

Steve Eagle (21) and Mike White (13) powered the Bisons to a 13-2 lead, but the Rams fought back to win 77-76. The Rams' defense was key in preventing the Bisons from scoring.

The Rams held off the Bisons' late surge, with Miller scoring 20 points in the final quarter to secure the victory. Miller's performance was crucial in the game.

Rams dominated the game with a strong defense, holding the Bisons to only 76 points. The defense was aided by the strong performance of Miller, who scored 20 points in the last quarter.

Overall, it was a great game for the Rams, who won with a strong defense and Miller's impressive performance. The Rams will look to continue their winning streak in their next game.
Goats win two in a row

Umass - Boston Falls

By Peter A. Hunter

With two straight victories, the Goats took a giant leap toward the same goal. In the first of these games, the defending champs defeated the Purple Helmets, 5-1, in a contest decided by three goals in the second half.

The Goats, who played much better throughout, took the early lead on a penalty shot by Dave Lewis. Lewis started the play on the right side and passed to Dave Brown, who sent the ball to the penalty box. Brown then dribbled to the goal and scored.

In the second half, the Goats continued to play well and scored three more goals to put the game out of reach. The final score was 5-1, with Goats goalie Paul Brown making several outstanding saves to keep the score low.

Doris nets four

By Peter A. Hunter

The Goats defeated the Purple Helmets, 5-1, in their second straight victory. Doris Brown scored four goals in the game, including two in the second half.

The game started slowly, with the Goats controlling the play for most of the first half. Doris Brown had several opportunities but was unable to convert them into goals.

In the second half, the Goats increased the pressure on the Purple Helmets and scored three more goals to put the game out of reach. The final score was 5-1, with Goats goalie Paul Brown making several outstanding saves to keep the score low.

Third straight victory a cakewalk for Rams

By Joe Coughlin

The Rams continued their dominant form with a 5-0 victory over the Purple Helmets. The Rams have now won three straight games, all by shutout, and have a perfect 3-0 record.

In the first half, the Rams took control of the game and scored three goals to put the game out of reach. Goaltender Tim O'Hara made several impressive saves to keep the score low.

In the second half, the Rams added two more goals to secure the victory. The final score was 5-0, with Rams goalie Tim O'Hara making several outstanding saves to keep the score low.

APO falls to Purple Helmets

By Joe Coughlin

The Purple Helmets defeated the APO 3-1 in their most recent game. The Purple Helmets scored three goals in the second half to pull away from the APO, who were able to score only one goal in the first half.

The game started slowly, with both teams playing cautiously. In the second half, the Purple Helmets began to take control of the game and scored three goals to put the game out of reach. Goaltender Tim O'Hara made several outstanding saves to keep the score low.

In the first half, the APO were able to score only one goal, which was enough to keep the game close. However, in the second half, the Purple Helmets were able to pull away and secure the victory.

---

January 3, 1980 (Suffolk Journal)

.apache, java, html, xml, python, c++
Learning on the FM dial

By Betty Saltz

If you're looking for genuine Italian cuisine, a gem without fancying the meal thing can be found in the North End. Among the many choices is Felicia's, which has a reputation for being friendly and welcoming to those who are not familiar with Italian food and culture, and the atmosphere is lively but not overwhelming.

Felicia's is a family-owned restaurant that offers a unique blend of traditional Italian dishes and contemporary twists. The menu features a variety of dishes, including pasta, pizza, and seafood, all prepared with fresh, high-quality ingredients.

The restaurant's wine list is extensive, offering a wide range of wines to complement the food. The staff is knowledgeable and friendly, ensuring a pleasant dining experience.

Felicia's is located in the heart of Boston, on a quiet side street off Boylston Street. The restaurant is open for lunch and dinner, and reservations are recommended during peak hours.

To make a reservation or learn more about Felicia's, visit their website or call them directly. They also offer catering services for events, making it a perfect choice for any occasion.
Miller’s gripping view in new Eclectic play

by Frank Loos

A View From the Bridge, by Arthur Miller, directed by George Armer, at the Berkeley Art Museum.

Even with the incredible overtones intermingled with its ingratiating elements, Arthur Miller’s A View From the Bridge is a play that is as gripping as it is controversial. The Eclectic production proves that Miller’s formula successfully maintains its dramatic impact.

The story concerns the relationship between two American fathers, each of whom is 90 percent of a man. Miller’s gripping view of the fathers, their lives, and their relationships is a testament to his skillful portrayal of characters and their interactions.

An authentic, stilted look at Catholic Church

The Runners Standish: A View From the Bridge, by Arthur Miller, directed by David Sedaris, at the Berkeley Art Museum.

The Runners Standish, a group of performers, engage in a series of messages that are presented to the audience. These messages are delivered in a stilted, authentic manner, reflecting the attitudes and beliefs of Catholic Church. The performances are designed to challenge the audience’s perceptions of the Catholic Church and its traditions.

The experience is enhanced by the performers’ use of costumes, props, and setting to create a realistic atmosphere. The stilted delivery of the messages is intended to make the audience question their beliefs and values, forcing them to confront the complex issues surrounding the Catholic Church.

Risks, however, are recognized as the clerics are nearly human, making them seem more vulnerable and affecting their performance. Yet, the same message conveyed in a traditional manner, is likely to be more effective in reaching the audience. However, Miller’s unique approach is successful in communicating his message to the audience, as it challenges them to rethink their beliefs and values.
Students agree – reinstate ‘Rats’

by Alice Whaley

The Suffolk students polled this week agreed unanimously that the Rathskeller should be reinstated. The Friday afternoon votes were recalled after fights broke out at the Christmas Rathskeller.

Mary Brant (Management '80) said: “It was just the time of year. People just went through a frustrating time with finals, and then got a little too heated.”

Mike DiGangioppo (journalism '81) said: “They should be reinstated. They should reinstate the Rathskeller because of the fun that the students are having.”

Eve Salt (Journalism '80) said that she also received the article last week. “I agree. Every student loves the Rathskeller and the only thing wrong here is the Rathskeller. People should get a little more involved in the Rathskeller.”

Pat Duffy (Information Systems '81) said: “I think they should get the Rathskeller back because we have no fun and it is just like a regular school day.”

Robert Chipman (Finance '80) said that the Rathskeller should be “kept open for the students. They should keep the Rathskeller open so students can get their minds off of the school. It is a way for students to blow offsteam.”

Anson Hulman (Business Management '81) said: “The school should do something about the Rathskeller. They should try to make the Rathskeller more fun.”

Bob Adams (Marketing '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

Larry Pulaski (Dance and Banking '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

John Sullivan (Management '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

Joseph Stines (Information Systems '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

Scott Gray (Assuming '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

Face the issues

Students agree – reinstate ‘Rats’

by Alice Whaley

The Suffolk students polled this week agreed unanimously that the Rathskeller should be reinstated. The Friday afternoon votes were recalled after fights broke out at the Christmas Rathskeller.

Mary Brant (Management '80) said: “It was just the time of year. People just went through a frustrating time with finals, and then got a little too heated.”

Mike DiGangioppo (journalism '81) said: “They should be reinstated. They should reinstate the Rathskeller because of the fun that the students are having.”

Eve Salt (Journalism '80) said that she also received the article last week. “I agree. Every student loves the Rathskeller and the only thing wrong here is the Rathskeller. People should get a little more involved in the Rathskeller.”

Pat Duffy (Information Systems '81) said: “I think they should get the Rathskeller back because we have no fun and it is just like a regular school day.”

Robert Chipman (Finance '80) said that the Rathskeller should be “kept open for the students. They should keep the Rathskeller open so students can get their minds off of the school. It is a way for students to blow offsteam.”

Anson Hulman (Business Management '81) said: “The school should do something about the Rathskeller. They should try to make the Rathskeller more fun.”

Bob Adams (Marketing '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

Larry Pulaski (Dance and Banking '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

John Sullivan (Management '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

Joseph Stines (Information Systems '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

Scott Gray (Assuming '81) said: “I think they should keep it going. It is just a place for people to get together.”

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Everyone’s Gone to the Movies...

Just the thing for cold, wintry Thursday afternoons on Beacon Hill. Films shown at 1 p.m. in the Aud. Second showing at 8 p.m. Upcoming films include...

Jan. 24 (That’s Today)

Turner/Pollock

Where Groove Tube left off

Jan. 31 (That’s next week)

Rollerball

Sponsored by the S.G.A. Film Committee

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

Jan. 24

Junior Senior Week...

Be involved in the planning of the Commencement Ball, Annual Outings, and Other Festivities. All Welcome

Today, 1 p.m. RL-3

Course Evaluation for Spring 1980

Help us plan S.G.A.’s course evaluation for the college courses.

Today, 2 p.m., S.G.A. office.

REMEMBER ALL S.G.A. MEETINGS ARE OPEN MEETINGS. Next Meeting, TUES. JAN. 29, Pres Conference Rm