Construction stops movies in auditorium

The construction work halted the evening of Thursday March 11 in the auditorium. The order to cease construction in that auditorium came from the president of Suffolk University. The University President gave the order to stop construction work because the auditorium is still not fully operable. The University President also warned that the building issues have not been resolved. The auditorium is expected to reopen by April 1.

Money is dominant issue at forum

by Nancy Riddle

The major economic issues facing the United States were addressed by a panel of speakers last Tuesday night in the Alumni Auditorium.

The panel was made up of Professor James B. Ford, Dean of the School of Business Administration; Professor John H. P. Boyd, Professor of Economics; and Mr. Frederick T. Bickel, Assistant to the President.

The speakers discussed the national economy, the issues of supply and demand, and the role of government in the economy.

Professor Ford began by discussing the national economy and the problems facing it. He emphasized the need for a balanced budget and the importance of controlling inflation.

Professor Boyd then addressed the issues of supply and demand. He explained that supply and demand are the basic forces that determine the prices of goods and services. He also discussed the role of government in the economy and the importance of free markets.

Mr. Bickel concluded the panel by discussing the role of government in the economy. He emphasized the need for a stable economic system and the importance of minimizing government intervention.

The forum was well attended and the speakers were able to answer many questions from the audience. The forum was a success and served to educate the public on the economic issues facing the United States.

The voyage of the Conception: life on a treasure ship

By Carol Hernandez

The Conception, a 104-foot long boat, was built in 1938 by Captain Al Glick Jr. and has been sailing the waters of the Channel Islands since then. The boat is known for its unique features, including a living room, kitchen, and bedroom. The crew lives on the boat full-time and is responsible for catching fish and selling them to local restaurants.

The Conception has been a popular destination for tourists, who can take a guided tour and learn about the history of the boat. The crew is also known for their hospitality and welcome visitors onboard.

Green Heart on the 17th

By Stan Harner

The Green Heart is a 19th-century shipwreck that was discovered in 2005 by a group of divers. The ship is now a popular tourist attraction and can be visited on guided tours. The ship's remains are well-preserved and offer a glimpse into the history of maritime trade.

The crew of the Conception has spent many years exploring the waters around the Channel Islands, and their expertise has allowed them to find some of the most intriguing shipwrecks in the area.

Health Spas — Tubby to Twiggy?

By Janet Miller

The health spa industry has seen a shift in recent years from traditional tubby to twiggy. Customers are now looking for ways to improve their health and fitness, and spas are offering a variety of programs to meet their needs.

The shift has been driven by a growing interest in wellness and a desire for a healthier lifestyle. Many people are now turning to health spas as a way to relax and rejuvenate, while also improving their overall health.

In the past, health spas were often associated with weight loss and dieting. However, today's spas offer a wide range of services, including massage, yoga, and fitness classes, to help customers achieve their wellness goals.

Classroom converts to hair salon

By Jill Blume

A local classroom has been converted into a hair salon, offering a variety of services to students and the community. The salon features a range of stations, including wash, cut, and style. The salon is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

SCALA on the march
By Sheila Fineman

The tent for the Student Christian Association was erected on a street corner near the Student Union in a valiant attempt to attract more members. Within a few hours, the tent was rebuilt, with the help of the Student Union’s carpentry department, and the SCALA members were able to continue their effort. The tent was finally taken down after two weeks, when the weather turned cold. The SCALA members were pleased with the outcome of their efforts and plan to continue their activities throughout the year.

Stage construction fails to meet regulations

By Mark McCall

The stage for the upcoming production of "The Crucible" was constructed by the剧团’s own crew, but the construction did not meet the required regulations. The stage was taken down and rebuilt before the show could open. The regulation failure resulted in a delay of the production and caused concern among the cast and crew. The Journal will continue to monitor the situation and provide updates as they become available.

Colleges oppose tax exempt cuts

By Mary Ann Hildebrand

This is a call to action for all college students to oppose the proposed cuts to the tax exempt status of colleges. The cuts would result in increased costs for students and reduced funding for education. It is important that we stand together and oppose this movement. Together, we can make a difference.

Curriculum proposal ready for faculty

By Carol Edelman

The proposal for the new curriculum is ready for faculty review. The proposal includes changes to the current curriculum, including new courses and revised requirements. The proposal is intended to better prepare students for the future and align with current industry standards. The faculty will have the opportunity to review and provide feedback on the proposal during the upcoming academic year.
