ONLY THE ARMY GIVES YOU TWO WAYS TO LOWER THE COST OF EDUCATION IN JUST TWO YEARS.

LOAN FORGIVENESS

If you have an Un dispensable Student Loan or a National Direct Loan, you are eligible for up to $60,000 in loan forgiveness if you serve in the Army.

You must complete your enlistment with a Loan Forgiveness Program. The government will forgive up to $60,000 in eligible loans, if you serve in the Army.

If you are in the Army, you will not have to worry about making payments. It's a simplified savings program between you and the government.

If you're between $25 and $50,000 of your monthly Army pay, the government will match that amount two for one. On top of that, you might qualify for an exclusive Army educational assistance of $2,500. Longer enlistments might qualify for higher amounts.

And you can participate in VELA at the same time to receive these benefits.

In fact, in just two years, you can accumulate up to $120,000 in total savings, which is why the Army can offer two for one.

TWO-FOR-ONE SAVINGS PLAN

In JUST TWO YEARS.

You can get two years of education in just two years, getting your education and saving for your future, all at the same time.

Orientation designed to 'Make it on the Hill'

In John Adams

Orientation week was coming to an end with the last day of classes on Monday. The new students had the opportunity to participate in various activities, including the Orientation Program, which is designed to help incoming students become familiar with the campus and its resources.

The program included a campus tour, a meeting with academic advisors, and a chance to meet other incoming students. The students also had the opportunity to sign up for various clubs and organizations.

Summer program helps students improve writing skills

By Jia Hu

The 2006 Teen Writing Camp, held June 19-23 at Suffolk Community College’s division campus, benefited 16 students who showed interest in developing their writing skills.

The camp, which is sponsored by Suffolk County Coalition Against Violence, aimed to provide a supportive environment for students to improve their writing. All the students selected for the program had a minimum GPA of 2.5.

The camp was led by five professional writers: Jeanette Oles, a writer and editor at the "Long Islander News"; and four other college professors.

The camp was designed to bring the students together to share their writing skills, and have their work reviewed by others. Each student was assigned a writer to help them improve their work.

The program featured workshops on editing, grammar, and research. Students also attended discussions about the writing process, and how to develop a story.

"The camp was designed to help the students improve their writing skills," said Oles. "We wanted to provide a supportive environment for them to share their work and receive feedback from others."

Risks payoff for Moody Blues

By Kevin Conolly

The Moody Blues, who have been touring the United States for the last few weeks, are scheduled to perform tonight at the Civic Center in Boston. Lead singer Justin Hayward, who is also the group's guitarist, said that the band was looking forward to playing in Boston because of its reputation as a music-loving city. He added that he was hoping for a good turnout for the show.

The band has been on tour for several months, and the members have been enjoying the opportunity to perform in different venues. Hayward said that the group was looking forward to coming back to Boston in the future.

A retrospective

Suffolk sports still holds its head high

By Kevin Conolly

Suffolk University's athletic program has been a source of pride for the university community for many years. The program has produced many successful athletes, including Olympic medalists and NCAA champions.

In recent years, the athletic program has faced challenges, including budget cuts and decreased enrollment. However, the program remains committed to providing opportunities for student-athletes to excel in their respective sports and to represent the university in a positive manner.

The athletic program has also undergone changes in recent years, including the addition of new sports and the realignment of existing programs. Despite these changes, the program continues to be a source of pride for the university community.
