A MESSAGE FROM THE OFFICE OF FINANCIAL AID

Major changes and guideline revisions have recently been implemented in the GUARANTEED STUDENT (HELP) LOAN PROGRAM

1) Effective October 1, 1981 all Guaranteed Student (HELP) Loan applicants must supply the Office of Financial Aid with income information. This office will perform a needs analysis test to assess the strength of your family income and determine your estimated family contribution. This needs analysis test is required and approved by the U.S. Department of Education, will determine your loan eligibility.

Those families whose 1980 adjusted gross income is lower than $30,000 will automatically be eligible for federal interest subsidy and guarantee. Those families whose 1980 adjusted gross income is greater than $30,000 must supply additional financial information to determine eligibility.

2) Effective August 23, 1981, all GSLP loan recipients must pay a $5 origination fee. Lenders (banks) now charge a fee of 5% on the principal amount of the loan and deduct this fee from the proceeds available from the Office of Financial Aid. You are welcome to make an appointment with the loan department for a current test. Required and approved by the U.S. Department of Education. Those families whose 1980 adjusted gross income is $30,000 or less are automatically eligible for federal interest subsidy and guarantee.

EXAMPLES:

A family who has received $3000 in a loan and has an adjusted gross income of $29,000 will have $150 added to their family contribution. Those families whose 1980 adjusted gross income is less than $30,000 will automatically be eligible for federal interest subsidy and guarantee.

3) The minimum annual repayment amount for all borrowers has been increased from $360 to $600 for those loans disbursed on or after October 1, 1981. The effect of this action will mean that a student loan

Of course you are aware that the increase in interest rates does not affect you. It affects only the amount that you must repay. If you are aware of this, you will be aware that the minimum annual repayment amount is increased from $360 to $600 for those loans disbursed on or after October 1, 1981. The effect of this action will mean that a student loan

Additional information regarding these and other financial aid program changes is available from the Office of Financial Aid. You are welcome to make an appointment with a financial aid officer to discuss the effects that these changes may have on you.

UP TEMPLE STREET

Temple Street students cite problems with Suffolk’s facilities

Students leave their classrooms and walk to the Student Center, Temple Street, and the Library on a normal school day. However, they find that the facilities are overcrowded, the food is subpar, and the services are poor.

The Suffolk Student Newspaper has been covering these issues for weeks, but the administration hasn’t done anything to address them. The students have had enough and are demanding change.

The students have held several protests and met with the administration, but they have been brushed off. The students are now considering a strike if their demands are not met.

Students are calling for better food, more space, and better services. They want the administration to listen to their concerns and take action.

Hunting is not just for the birds

By Ken Dionette

In the time of my youth, I was a bird hunter. I spent many hours in the woods, stalking the elusive quail. I recall one particular day when I was hunting in the woods. I was walking carefully, trying to stay silent so as not to disturb the birds. Suddenly, I saw a large flock of quail gathering near a small stream. I took aim and fired, but missed. The birds scattered, but I continued to stalk them. Finally, I was able to get close enough to make a shot. The birds fell dead, and I added them to my collection. Hunting was a way of life for me, and it taught me many valuable lessons about patience and perseverance.

Boston Shakespeare Company’s ‘Hamlet’ — An unusual production of the Bard’s tragedy

By Isabell Matthews

I was at the Boston Shakespeare Company’s production of “Hamlet.” I was impressed by the actors’ portrayal of the characters. The production was directed by a young man named John, who is known for his innovative approach to Shakespearean plays. John’s vision for the production was to make it more accessible to a modern audience.

John’s production was different from the traditional productions I have seen in the past. He used modern language and contemporary settings. For example, he had the actors wear modern dress, and he used contemporary music and sound effects to enhance the performance. I was particularly impressed by the way he brought Hamlet to life. The actor playing Hamlet was able to convey the character’s inner struggles and emotions to the audience.

The production was a success, and it received positive reviews from the critics. The audience was also impressed, and many of them commented on how much they enjoyed the performance. I highly recommend seeing this production if you have the chance. It was a unique and engaging interpretation of Shakespeare’s classic play.
