Financial Aid: Reagan closes the door

by Suzanne Diaz

Threats of massive cutbacks in financial aid for college students by the Reagan administration will be met by opposition from the combined efforts of the Suffolk Financial Aid Office and the Student Government Association (SGA).

Although the actual cuts will not be known until President Reagan submits his budget for the 1983 fiscal year next month, the American Council on Education (ACE) has estimated where and what cuts and eliminations will be made.

The Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (PELL) may be reduced by 40 percent. The program had previously

Suffolk to lobby against aid cutbacks

Suffolk University, along with several other Massachusetts colleges, is joining the nationwide campaign to lobby against the proposed cuts in Federal Aid to Higher Education. Suffolk will be sending a delegation to Washington, D.C. to attend the Coalition for Adequate Financial Aid to Higher Education (COAFHE) lobby day. The delegation will consist of students, faculty and staff members who will be visiting legislators in both houses of Congress to explain the importance of continued financial aid to Suffolk and other institutions of higher education.

The campaign, which is expected to last three days, is being led by the National Association of Colleges and Universities (NACU). Suffolk is one of the 30 institutions participating in the campaign. The delegation will meet with legislators and staff members from both the House and Senate to discuss the impact of the proposed cuts on higher education.

The cuts would result in a significant reduction in the amount of financial aid available to students, particularly those from low-income families. Suffolk University, like many other institutions, relies heavily on Federal Aid to support its financial aid programs and ensure that students from all backgrounds have access to higher education.

Molly joins Placement Center

By R. Scott Reddick

Molly, a recent Suffolk graduate, has been named the new coordinator of the Career Planning and Placement Center. Molly will be responsible for assisting students in their job search, including resume writing, interview preparation, and career exploration.

Molly has been involved in the Suffolk community for several years. She has worked as a tutor and a counselor at the Career Planning and Placement Center, and has also served as a resident advisor. Her experience and dedication to helping students make the transition from college to the workplace has made her an ideal candidate for this position.

Joanne Carr, 33, dead after heart attack

Joanne Carr, a 33-year-old student at Suffolk University, died unexpectedly from a heart attack on Monday afternoon. She was visiting a friend in the hospital when she collapsed and was pronounced dead.

Carr was a senior at Suffolk University, majoring in Business Administration. She was a dedicated student and had been involved in various campus activities. She was well-liked by her peers and her professors.

Program Council debates co-sponsoring party w/APO

by Carol Caravantes

The Program Council debated on co-sponsoring a party with APO at their meeting Wednesday, Feb. 6. The meeting was held in the 1st floor lounge of the library. The event was sponsored by the Student Activities Office (SAO) and the Student Union Activities Committee (SUAC) on Feb. 13, Thursday between 7:30 pm and 10:30 pm. According to SUAC, the event will feature a dance with a DJ and a live band.

Suffolk students were encouraged to attend the event, which was expected to attract a large crowd. The council discussed the potential benefits and drawbacks of co-sponsoring the event, including concerns about the responsibilities and logistics involved. Ultimately, the council voted to move forward with the co-sponsorship, with plans to work closely with the SAO and SUAC to ensure a successful event.

Lobby for Aid before it's gone

The student lobby. Suffolk's Social Work Program. Special thanks to the students in the Social Work Program for their dedication and hard work in lobbying on behalf of their colleagues and fellow students. The students have demonstrated their commitment to improving education and increasing awareness of the issues affecting our community. Their efforts are a testament to the power of collective action and the importance of advocating for change. We commend their dedication and encourage all students to join them in their efforts to make a difference.

New library a plus

The new library is a welcome addition to the Suffolk campus. Its modern design and innovative features provide a comfortable and inviting space for studying, learning, and research. The library's extensive collection of books and resources is a testament to the commitment of the faculty and administration to providing students with the tools they need to succeed. We congratulate the staff and faculty on their hard work in creating this space and look forward to seeing the continued growth and development of the library.

Slipping Away

The recent flooding in Boston is a reminder of the importance of preparedness and resilience in the face of natural disasters. Our thoughts are with those affected by the flooding and we hope that the community comes together to support those in need. As we move forward, we must continue to prioritize the safety and well-being of our residents and ensure that our infrastructure is resilient to the challenges of climate change.

Letters appear on page 14 this week.

Suffolk loses a friend

Suffolk has lost a very special person with the passing of Joanne E. Car. She was more than a professor and director of special education; she was a friend who brought a special warmth to our campus. Dr. Car taught her classes with an unbridled passion and a deep love for her students and her field. She was an inspiration to us all. Her dedication to her students and her profession was unwavering, and she will be greatly missed. Our thoughts are with her family, friends, and colleagues as they mourn her passing and celebrate her life.

The Police, Triumph in sellout concert show

by Kevin Cramer

The Police embarked on their triumphant World Tour in San Francisco at the Cow Palace on Friday night. The concert was packed to the rafters, marking the first time the group, comprised of Sting, Andy Summers, and Stewart Copeland, have been in the area since the late 1970s.

The band delivered an electrifying performance, commanding the attention of the sold-out crowd with their energetic and melodic sound. Sting’s voice carried throughout the arena, accompanied by Summers’ guitar riffs and Copeland’s dynamic drumming. The Police’s setlist included their biggest hits, captivating fans with classics like “Roxette,” “Message in a Bottle,” and “Every Breath You Take.”

The Cow Palace, once a venue for agricultural events and concerts, was transformed into a vibrant concert space, with state-of-the-art lighting and sound equipment. The arena’s capacity was fully utilized, with fans from all over the Bay Area and beyond flocking to the event. The Police’s performance was a testament to their longevity and enduring appeal, as their music continues to resonate with audiences of all ages.

A private lesson in trashy film

by R. Scott Ready

When Sting tells us that they are releasing their second album, we should take it at face value. They are, after all, a British band that has enjoyed moderate success. However, when Sting tells us that they are releasing their second album, we should start to have serious concerns, because “The Police” is the name of the band and not the title of the album.

The Police, composed of Sting, Andy Summers, and Stewart Copeland, are known for their catchy, melodic sound that has earned them a devoted following. Their first album, “The Police,” was released in 1978 and included hits like “Can’t Stand Losing You” and “ Roxette.”

Critics have mixed reactions to the band’s second album, with some praising its upbeat, eclectic sound and others critical of its lack of coherence. Regardless, the album promises to offer a fresh take on the band’s signature style, with new influences and a more diverse range of genres.

Heights not always a requirement for basketball

By Marjorie Maza

On Monday, a group of basketball players gathered in the Rec Center for a game of dodgeball. The team, led by coach Maria Maza, played against a group of faculty members. The game was a friendly competition, with the aim of promoting physical activity and team bonding.

The players, consisting of students and faculty members, were divided into two teams. Each team consisted of 10 members, with an equal number of men and women. The game was divided into two halves, with a 15-minute break in between.

The team led by coach Maria Maza managed to score a total of 13 goals, while the faculty team scored only 7 goals. The team led by coach Maria Maza won the game with a 13-7 victory.

Standings explanation

These standings are not the determinants of the divisional leaders. These standings are based on the teams that Suffolk plays and are not meant to be taken as the official rankings. The actual determination of division leaders is based on other factors such as the teams that Suffolk plays and their overall performance.

A MESSAGE FROM THE OFFICE OF FINANCIAL AID

Next month President Rogan will submit his budget proposal to the Congress for the 1983 fiscal year. In addition, proposals will be made to restore funding to the financial aid programs for the 1982-83 academic year.

The level of funding and support to students under the federal higher education programs is uncertain. The current administration is proposing to cut funding to the financial aid programs. The President's budget will call for another round of cuts for next academic year. The planned reductions will take 595 million out of student aid and reduce other assistance programs.

The AmeriCorps National Education Corporation's (ACE) list of educational programs lists the following cuts:

- A 20% reduction in Federal Education Pell Grants
- A 20% reduction in College Work Study
- Total elimination of Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants
- Elimination of student participation in the Guaranteed Student Loan Program
- Reorganization of graduate student loan programs to pass on more direct need analysis.

In addition, the loan program for loan 5 percent to 10 percent.

The ACE continues to state that the magnitude of such proposals continues to show the conclusion that the administration is working to abandon the long-term federal commitment to equal opportunities in higher education.

Hundreds of students will be affected by the cuts, with some reductions in funding for the 1982-83 fiscal year. These further cutbacks will result in a further reduction in aid package for the 1983 fiscal year.

The ACE requests that all students be given a voice in the decision-making process in relation to funding cuts, as the cuts will have a significant impact on students at Suffolk University.

The Office of Financial Aid will honor the current financial aid awards for the 1982-83 academic year. These further cutbacks will result in a further reduction in aid package for the 1983 fiscal year.
