A MESSAGE FROM THE OFFICE OF FINANCIAL AID

Next month President Roger will submit his budget proposal to the Congress for the 1982 fiscal year. In addition, proposals will be made to the funding of students under the Federal education aid programs. The President's budget will call for another round of cutbacks for the following academic year. The funding of education aid programs is in doubt. The President's budget will call for another round of cutbacks for the fiscal year 1982-83 academic year.

The level of funding and support to students under the federal higher education aid programs is still uncertain. The very existence of some of these programs is in doubt. The President's budget will call for another round of cutbacks for the fiscal year 1982-83 academic year.

Suffolk has lowest tuition
As a result of a three-year contract the student body tuition rate will be $1500 per semester, a 30% reduction over previous years. The contract, however, is not expected to cover the full cost of education. Suffolk's President, Dr. Charles L. O'Malley, attributed the reduction to increased enrollment and economies of scale. The president also noted that Suffolk has taken a leadership role in the area of college costs, and that he hopes other institutions will follow suit.

SGA members rate organization and themselves
As part of the spring break, the Student Government Association (SGA) conducted a survey of its members to rate their organization and themselves. The survey, which included questions about leadership, communication, and service to the student body, was sent to all SGA members in early April. The results showed that the majority of members rated their organization and themselves highly. However, some members felt that the organization could improve in areas such as communication and service to the student body.

Program Council proposes changes in committees
by Geri Weisman
The president and executive committee of the Program Council have proposed changes in the committee structure. The new committee structure would include four main committees: Academic, Social, Student Life, and Community Service. The purpose of the changes is to create a more efficient committee system and to ensure that all students have the opportunity to participate.

Student Development Committee discusses cults on campus
by Irwin Landauer
The Student Development Committee is currently investigating the presence of cults on campus. The committee is working with local law enforcement and the Massachusetts Office of Consumer Affairs to determine the extent of the problem and to develop strategies for preventing cult activity. The committee will also consider possible sanctions for students who are involved in cults.

Student Development Committee discusses cheating

Student Development Committee's policy is to identify, monitor and address any behavior that may pose a threat to the university community. The committee meets regularly to discuss any issues that may arise, including cheating, plagiarism, and other forms of academic dishonesty. They work closely with faculty and staff to ensure that students understand the consequences of their actions and that they are held accountable for their conduct. The committee also provides resources and support to students who need help with academic or personal issues. The goal is to promote a culture of integrity and responsibility among all members of the Suffolk community.

Activities Transcript necessary

The activities transcript is an important document that students should keep on file for reference. It provides a record of all the courses taken and the grades achieved. This information is necessary for many purposes, such as applying to graduate school, seeking employment, or satisfying credit requirements. Students should make sure to obtain a copy of their activities transcript and keep it in a safe place, preferably in a folder or binder. It is also a good idea to keep copies of all course syllabi and any other important documents related to coursework. This will help ensure that students have accurate and complete records of their academic achievements.

Experiencing a sailor's lifestyle of years past

Suffolk's sailing team had a busy day on Saturday, March 23, when they competed in the New England Sailing Association regatta. The team was joined by sailors from other colleges and universities, making for a challenging and exciting day of racing. The sailors were divided into different classes, including spinnaker, sculling, and keelboat. Each team had to navigate through a复杂的 course, which included marked buoys and other obstacles. The sailors were judged on their ability to sail efficiently and quickly, as well as their technical skills. The team that finishes first is considered the winner. The day was a great opportunity for students to gain experience and improve their sailing skills. The team had a great day, and everyone had fun and enjoyed the challenge.

Students deserve full-time professors

Full-time professors are essential to the success of any university. They provide a stable and consistent presence, offering students the opportunity to develop strong relationships and receive personalized attention. Full-time professors are committed to teaching and are well-prepared to provide guidance and support. They have a deep understanding of the subject matter and can offer students a wealth of knowledge and expertise. Full-time professors also have the opportunity to engage in research and contribute to the academic community, bringing new insights and perspectives to the classroom. This helps to create an environment that is rich in knowledge and innovation.

The students are expected to have a full-time professor for each of their courses. This ensures that students receive the attention and support they need to succeed. Full-time professors are able to provide students with the guidance and feedback necessary for academic success. They are also able to offer students the opportunity to engage in research and other academic activities, helping to foster a sense of community and belonging. Full-time professors are committed to the success of their students and are willing to go the extra mile to ensure that they have the resources and support they need to achieve their goals.

Haitian professor overcomes dual barrier

by Larry Buckley

The Haitian professor who recently found himself in the position of having his passport revoked by Interpol and the government of Haiti is facing a dual barrier in his efforts to return to the United States. The names of the professor and his wife and children were included in Interpol's list of wanted fugitives, and the Haitian government has denied them the right to return to the country.

The professor, who had been teaching at Harvard University, was arrested in Haiti in 2003 on charges of fraud. He was released on bail and was scheduled to return to the United States, but the Haitian government revoked his passport and prevented him from leaving the country.

In order to help him overcome these barriers, the Haitian government has agreed to provide the professor with a new passport and to facilitate his return to the United States. The Haitian government has also agreed to lift the travel restrictions on his wife and children.

The professor is grateful for the support of his colleagues and friends in the United States and around the world. He is determined to continue his academic career and to contribute to the understanding of Haitian culture and society.

Ah, Spring, a young man's fancy turns to baseball

by John Alabio

The April sun breaks through the clouds as the season begins to turn. The days become longer, the temperatures rise, and the excitement of baseball returns. The young men in the Suffolk baseball team are eager to play.

Suffolk is ranked 11th in the Northeast in Division III baseball. The team is the only one of the three with a winning record this year, and they hope to continue their success.

NUMBER 1
The Rolling Stones

Tattoo You
K-Tel Records, August

The Stones have put together a varied collection of songs on Tattoo You. It's not their best, but it's a good release that will appeal to fans. The title track is a strong opener, followed by the catchy "You Got the Silver." The album includes some of the Stones' biggest hits, like "Paint It Black" and "Start Me Up," as well as some lesser-known tracks.

NUMBER 2
Bob Dylan

Street-Legal
Reprise Records, August

Dylan's latest album, Street-Legal, is a departure from his previous work. It features country-influenced songs with a more laid-back feel. "Koko's Got a Thing for You" and "Look Out on the World" are standout tracks. Dylan's vocals are clear and his guitar playing is as good as ever.

Students face $40 tuition increase

Prof. Mulvey to resign

Happy Valentine's Day

by Carla Lamons

by Nancy Rezende

Suffolk University announced yesterday that it has increased its tuition for undergraduate, graduate, and law school programs for the 1983-1984 academic year, according to President Ernest P. Harrington.

For full-time students, undergraduate tuition will increase from $1,210 to $1,318, a 14 percent increase.

For part-time students, a three-quarter undergraduate course education will increase from $1,100 to $1,210 and a graduate course from $1,318 to $1,478.

The increased tuition will take effect in September and will be included in the fall term. The University has also announced an increase in tuition to the school's Finance Coordinator, students, and other departments.

In addition to the tuition increase, the University will also raise the cost of living for students and employees. The increase will be split between a 5 percent raise for students and a 2 percent raise for employees.

Suffolk University's decision to raise tuition has been met with mixed reactions from students and faculty. Some have criticized the University for increasing tuition at a time when the economy is struggling, while others have praised the University for its commitment to providing quality education.

Prof. Mulvey, a long-time faculty member, has been a vocal critic of the University's decision to raise tuition. Prof. Mulvey has been a leading voice in the campus community for years, advocating for the rights of students and employees.

Prof. Mulvey's resignation has been met with sadness by many students and faculty. Prof. Mulvey has been a beloved member of the Suffolk community and will be missed by all.

Test film knowledge in Journal contest

by Carla Lamons

The University's first annual film knowledge contest was held last weekend.

The contest, sponsored by the Journal, was open to all students and faculty. Participants were asked to name specific films that had been shown in the University's annual film festival, which took place earlier this month.

The contest was divided into three categories: undergraduate, graduate, and law school. Participants were asked to name films from each category.

In the undergraduate category, the top three winners were:

1. John Smith
2. Jane Doe
3. Mary Johnson

In the graduate category, the top three winners were:

1. Robert Brown
2. Susan Green
3. David White

In the law school category, the top three winners were:

1. James Brown
2. Elizabeth Black
3. John White

The winners were awarded certificates and prizes for their knowledge of film. Prof. Mulvey, who served as judge for the contest, praised the participants for their knowledge of film.

Happy Valentine's Day

by Nancy Rezende

Suffolk University hosted a special Valentine's Day event last night to celebrate the holiday.

The event, held in the University's student center, featured a variety of activities, including a live performance by the University's resident band, a wine tasting, and a special screening of the classic romantic comedy, "Casablanca.

Prof. Mulvey, who is known for her love of film, was in attendance at the event and was loudly cheering on the band as they performed.
