Barbara Boulas, the Economics major who could have been a Wallieia of only her legs had been longer, can't sell you more about the film than the fact that it was a Kenmore Quality that almost every other Kenmore Quality whitegood except through the store. Also the Main as employees, she opened almost every package of them to find just the right shade to a number. She was chockfull. Such a lazy day in the life of a Springfest director.

The Springfest director is a strange beast. They seem to thrive on lack of sleep, doing rehearsals, and massive quantities of ice tea. But the thread that seems to truly keep them alive is their love for the job. They love the job, as a teacher loves to teach. They love the job, as a coach loves to coach, as a soldier loves to fight, as a spy loves to steal.

Lori Springfest co-director and the Chairman of the Springfest Committee Dr. Allen's Mudder, the show, would break tradition this year and be totally coordinated to one theme, Broadway musicals. The show will also contain a number of "moments," although Springfest admits they are forming an production numbers

"One night less," according to the auditions that decide who who will create a part of the Springfest show. According to Mudder, this year's production will contain an appreciation of approximately 44 performers and 12 crew members as well as various other students. About 60 students will be involved in the production in some way.

The tryouts were judged this year by the directors and the participants of the auditions. Cook said, "If you were to ask me to give you a list of the students who were chosen, I'd say, 'Yes, but..."}

Making fantasies a part of reality...

By Judy Walzer

It may come as a shock to some, but the California Department of Education has not only been under the weather, it has also been under fire.

In the last few months, the state's schools have been grappling with a variety of issues, from teacher shortages to budget cuts and increased class sizes. And while some of these problems may seem insurmountable, there is hope for the future.

In an effort to address these challenges, the department has been working closely with school districts to implement new strategies. One such strategy is the creation of a new curriculum that focuses on creativity and critical thinking.

According to a recent report, the new curriculum has been well-received by students and teachers alike. In fact, many students have reported an increase in their interest in learning, as well as a feeling of greater engagement and motivation.

Overall, the initiative is proving to be a success, and the education department is optimistic about its long-term benefits. With continued support and investment, the future of education in California looks bright.

Driving to school can drive you crazy

From the blog of a suburban mom

As a parent, I know firsthand how hectic it can be to get your kids to school on time. Traffic, parking, and even finding a seat on the bus can be a challenge.

But did you know that driving to school can actually cause more stress than other everyday tasks? According to a recent study, parents who drive their kids to school report feeling more anxious and tired than those who use public transportation.

So what's a parent to do? Here are some tips to help you navigate the morning routine with ease:

1. Plan ahead. Make a schedule and stick to it. This will help you avoid last-minute panic and ensure that everyone gets out the door on time.
2. Use public transportation. This can save you time and reduce traffic congestion.
3. Involve your kids in the process. Let them help with packing and waking up. This will make them feel more in control and reduce stress.
4. Stay positive. Remember that it's just a drop in the bucket of your kids' day, and that they'll be fine if they're late.

By following these simple tips, you can make the morning routine a breeze and help your kids start the day off on the right foot.
ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Hepburn makes Waltz worthwhile

By W.B. Sands

Bette Davis is not known as a dance music mystery rock star, but for some fans she is a welcome surprise. The original title of the new album by Hepburn and Davis, "Waltz," was changed to "Waltz with Bette" after word of the project leaked out. The album is produced by John Butcher and features a mix of original songs and covers of classic dance tunes.

Jon Butcher Axis benefits from Geils experience

In this era of individualism and self-centeredness, it is refreshing to see a band that is dedicated to a common cause. The Jon Butcher Axis, led by the late John Butcher, was a true force of nature. Their music was characterized by a unique blend of rock and blues, and their live performances were legendary.

Great White is a big yawn

Great White is a band that has been around for a long time. Their latest album, "Big Yawn," is a collection of covers of classic rock songs. The band's version of "Stairway to Heaven" is particularly noteworthy. However, despite the band's adherence to classic rock, their music lacks the energy and enthusiasm that made their earlier albums so enjoyable.

Cat People far from purr-fect

From Madeline Kikala can't save cat people

From Madeline Kikala can't save cat people

The album "Cat People" is a collection of songs about cats. The lead singer, Madeline Kikala, does a wonderful job of capturing the essence of these furry creatures. However, the album's title track, "Cat People," is a bit too cheesy for some fans. Overall, the album is a heartwarming tribute to our feline friends.
