SGA reprimands PC

by Joyce Hutchins

Acting as the voice of its student body, the Student Government Association expressed concern at the way in which the Program Council (PC) sponsored events are handled. The SGA said that it is concerned about the way the PC handles its events, and that the PC should take more responsibility for the events it sponsors.

The SGA board said that it has noticed a decline in the quality of PC-sponsored events, and that the PC should take more responsibility for the events it sponsors. This calculator thinks business. The TI Student Business Analyst.

If there's one thing undergrad business students have always needed, this is it: an affordable, business-oriented calculator. The Student Business Analyst. Its built-in business formulas let you perform complicated finance, accounting, and statistical functions—the ones that usually require a lot of time and a stack of reference books, like present and future value calculations, amortization, and balloon payments.

It all means you spend less time calculating, and more time learning. One keystroke takes the place of many. The calculator is just part of the package. You also get a book that follows most business courses: the Business Analyst Guidebook. Business professionals helped us write it, to help you get the most out of calculator and classroom. A powerful combination. Think business. With the Student Business Analyst.

Students speak out on NFL strike

by Mike DeStefano

They're going to be a lot of strikes in November and December this year. How about it? Strike season! You can blame the NFL owners for that. Their greed is the problem. The players are just doing what they have to do to protect their rights. But the fans are going to pay the price. They're going to have to wait for the games to start again. "It's not fair," said one fan. "We want to see the games. We want to see our team play. How about it?"

Reagan ties Financial Aid to Draft Registration

by Jose Ivenrredo

When President Ronald Reagan signed the Department of Defense Authorization Bill (H.R.2248) on September 7th he not only funded the Pentagon's budget for a war at male college students.

A line-item veto to the bill proposed by Republicans Gerbi, Sotman, (N.Y.1) and S.J. Hayakawa (Mass.) has made certain aid to male students contingent on draft registration.

The amendment goes into effect July 1, 1983 and will affect the following federal and state programs: Student Loans, Pell Grants, Supplemental Education Opportunity Grants, college work-study and State Supplemental Incentive Grants.

The American Civil Liberties Union is preparing a lawsuit to block the amendment. The ACLU claims the law is unconstitutional; because it creates a process since non-registrants would be punished for crimes which they were never convicted.

Westleyan University's junior Russell Ford, who is currently in a Connecticut federal jail awaiting trial for failure to register, said, the government is using extreme measures to make draft regs. "far and wide, have a much more massive defiance to a law this is never heard of before."

It's a mystery to us how he was enforced, said Danny Lincoln of the Student Government Association. The only thing we are interested in having to enforce the law, he said.

PC rebuts SGA

by Suzanne Dic

The Program Council (PC) upon the suggestion of the Student Government Association (SGA) discussed last week to do the Council on the elections for one year.

The PC was put on probation follow the controversy with the 'Monday Night Madness Cruise.

An internal investigation warned that the PC would slide to those who were caught short in addition to losing them complementaries access to the next PC party.

PC President John McDonnell stressed the need to know how in its statements to the SGA.

The PC statement reads:

"We were taken by the SGA with uninterested and unfounded criticism at the Program Council regarding the relationship between the two bodies, and to hear the needs of the students, the PC should make its own decision.

Specifically the statement reads:

"To begin with, we have hired our own people which we would not distribute to the SGA. Further, most of the SGA's actions are the result of PC decision, and they are not independent of the SGA's policies."

Of the members of the Council, there were non-society who were upset against or indifferent to the the planning branch."

PC rebuts SGA

Students and faculty were surprised Thursday morning to hear that the program council (PC) had elected to tie financial aid to draft registration.

The PC proposal, as stated in its final version, would have required new freshmen to register for the draft, and would have cut off any financial aid to those who did not register.

The PC proposal was rejected by the Student Government Association (SGA) on Monday, but the PC has since decided to seek a compromise.

The PC proposal was made in response to a memo from the Department of Defense Authorizing Bill (H.R.2248), which requires that all students who receive financial aid must also register for the draft.

The PC proposal was met with widespread opposition from students and faculty alike, who felt that it was an unfair and unjust measure.

The SGA proposed an alternative plan, which would have required students to register for the draft, but would have also provided financial aid to those who did not register.

The PC rejected this proposal, and decided to seek a compromise with the SGA.
