Drunk driving must be stopped

We believe that the Suffolk Journal has a special responsibility to alert the students to the dangers of drunk driving. We all know that it causes unnecessary and tragic accidents and deaths. We are calling on the Suffolk community to support all efforts to curb this major public menace.

If you have a news scoop or an idea for any department, come down to the Journal (RL19) and share it with Suffolk's leading paper.

Forgetting the 'Natural Look'

Retaining a polished image is important in the film industry, where the "natural look" is considered passé. This is evidenced by the increasing number of actors who choose to use makeup and prosthetics to enhance their looks. However, even natural-looking people are not immune to the pressures of the industry. "It's a question of image," said one actress. "If you don't look good, you're not going to get noticed." Despite this, she added, "I'm not saying I want to look like a doll. Just because I'm not doing makeup, doesn't mean I'm not spending hours in front of the mirror."

Predicting a grim future

With the economy in decline, many are predicting a grim future for the film industry. "The business is in free fall," said one industry expert. "We're seeing a drop in attendance and box office revenue." The expert predicted that the industry would continue to decline, with more and more theaters closing. "It's a bad sign," he continued, "and it's only going to get worse." Despite this, some are optimistic, saying that the industry will bounce back. "In the past, we've seen cycles," said one critic. "It's just a matter of time before we see a recovery." However, others are less hopeful, saying that the industry may never recover from the current crisis.

Resigning from the diet race

Many actors are coming under increasing pressure to maintain a certain body image. "It's a never-ending battle," said one actress. "I have to keep my weight down, no matter what." She added, "It's not just about looking good, it's about being healthy too." Despite this, she said, "I'm proud of the way I look. I'm not going to let anyone tell me otherwise." Others are more critical of the industry, saying that it puts too much emphasis on physical appearance. "It's not just actors," said one critic. "It's everyone. We're all judged on how we look." She added, "It's a sad state of affairs." Despite this, many continue to work in the industry, saying that it's just a part of the job.

ARTS & MUSIC

Wood shines above confused Brainstorm

The LUMEN - A 1983 piano and 1977 guitar showcase the dramatic sound of Wood and the sensitive sound of Fairchild. The two musicians, who are only 16 years old, met while studying at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. They began playing together in 1977 and have been performing ever since.

Wood, who is known for his ability to play a wide range of musical styles, performed a selection of pieces ranging from classical to contemporary.

Fairchild, on the other hand, focused on his signature style of acoustic guitar playing.

Contemporary and inimitable, Wood and Fairchild's performance left the audience
astonished.
