SGA debates allocation for concert

by Ken Thompson

James covers a debate between the Social Sorority and the Alpha Delta Chapter of Phi Sigma Sigma over the allocation of funds for a concert. The debate took place in the Student Center and was attended by faculty and students. The Social Sorority argued for a larger allocation due to their larger membership and constituency. The Alpha Delta Chapter countered with their own arguments, emphasizing the needs of their members. The debate was well-received by the audience, who were actively engaged in the discussion and asked thoughtful questions.

Stage Doonesbury lacks strip’s spirit

by Angela Stein

For the past year or so, the comic strip Doonesbury has been one of the most talked-about phenomena in the comic book world. The strip, created by Garry Trudeau, is known for its sharp satire and biting political commentary. However, in recent weeks, there have been rumors circulating that the strip may be facing a significant change.

The rumors suggest that the strip may be losing some of its edge, with Doonesbury no longer being the same sharp, politically-charged comic that it once was. Some fans have expressed concern that the strip may be becoming too soft in its criticism and that it may no longer be as relevant to the current political climate.

While the rumors continue to swirl, Trudeau has made it clear that he has no plans to change the way the strip is written. "I’ve been writing Doonesbury for over 40 years," he said in a recent interview. "I’ve always tried to be as honest and irreverent as possible. I’m not going to start softening my style now just because some people want me to.
