Trustees approve '91-'92 tuition hike

by Heather A. Swails

At their meeting last month, the Board of Trustees approved tuition increases for the 1991-92 school year.

Tuition increases, recommended to the board for consideration by President David J. Sargent and Vice President/Treasurer Francis X. Flannery, were released to the Suffolk community in a memorandum on February 14.

Undergraduate tuition will be increased by 7.28%, .82% less than the 1990-91 undergraduate tuition increase which was 8.1%.

With the increase, CLAS and SOM undergraduate full-time tuition will be $8,475. CLAS and SOM undergraduate part-time will be $708 for each registered course.

An increase of between 5.83% and 6.86% is slated for the graduate program, 2.17%-3.04% less than the 8%-9.9% increase of the 1990-91 increase. This will bring CLAS full-time graduate tuition to $8,820, and CLAS part-time graduate tuition to $882 for each registered course.

Graduate MBA full-time tuition will be $11,700 and MBA part-time will be $1,170 per course; graduate MPA full-time will be $11,700 and part-time will be $1,122 per course. Executive MBA will be $1,170 and Executive MPA will be $1,122. Both Executive programs have an additional fee for books and meals.

The Law School will absorb an increase of 9%, .9% higher than the 1990-91 increase of 8.1%. This will bring Law School day division tuition to $11,900 and evening division tuition to $8,992.

Even with these increases, the memorandum released February 14 claims, Suffolk University's undergraduate tuition continues to be one of the lowest undergraduate tuition rates of any independent university in Massachusetts and about 25% lower than the average tuition at all independent colleges and universities in the state.

The memorandum added that many students entering the Law School and Suffolk's graduate programs from other independent universities in the state enjoy tuition rates that are lower than the undergraduate tuitions at the universities they previously attended.

Moreover, the 1991-92 tuition increases in CLAS and SOM are the lowest tuition increases instituted by the university since 1976.

Approval of the tuition increases was made by the trustees in response to increased costs to the university. The cost of the university's group health insurance, for example, is expected to increase by 50% for next year.

The trustees feel that providing high quality education at a relatively affordable price is one of Suffolk's main goals. In order for the university to remain competitive with other universities and to offer quality education, however, requires some increase in costs for the betterment of the university's programs, services, and facilities.

Despite the necessity of these increases, the university has attempted to minimize them by increasing the funds available for financial aid. They have not, however, stipulated as to how much these funds will be increased.

Over the past two years, the CLAS and SOM undergraduate tuition has increased 15.38%. Meanwhile, the graduate program tuition has increased 13.83% to 16.17% and the Law School tuition has increased 17.1%.

Using resources in the job hunt

by Betsy McDowell
Assistant Director of Career Services

In today's competitive job market, there is only one approach to job hunting, and that is the proactive approach. This means that you must, as a proactive job hunter, be persistent and continually using as many of the resources at your disposal as possible. In order to be in the right place at the right time, you must be in as many places as you can be at all times.

Many publications exist that can really give you a leg up on the competition. You must remember to always be thinking about how to create opportunity for yourself. Get out of the rut that tells you to only look for job "listings." Listings are important, of course, but you must think more broadly. As you read business publications (like Boston Business Journal or New England Business magazine) or the business and focus sections of the Globe and the Herald, pay attention to such things as whether or not a company or organization has just landed a new contract, or launched a new product, or acquired a new customer. All of these things could indicate a need for new employees — a need you may be able to fill.

Sources for job listings include newspapers (including small community papers like the TAB or the PATRIOT LEDGER, and specialty papers like the PHOENIX), job weeklies (like the JOBFINDER and the NATIONAL BUSINESS EMPLOYMENT REVIEW), the Suffolk University Career Library, the Department of Employment and Training, and community agencies (like the Jewish Vocational Service and the Women's Educational and Industrial Union).

Almost every career field in which you may be interested has a professional publication you should be reading and a local chapter of a professional association which you should join. Both of these resources can give you access to job listings and keep you informed of the latest news in your field (a real advantage in your interviewing). These are also excellent resources for you to tap for your networking efforts.

You should be sure to take advantage of the many resources available to you at the Career Services office at 20 Ashburton Place. As previously mentioned, you can find job listings (full-time, part-time and internship) there. You can also find many business, career field and news publications, information on employers, employment-related events, career fields and graduate programs, job hunting and career planning and assessment guides, and the Alumni Career Advisory Network (ACAN). ACAN is an invaluable resource for you as the job hunter because it gives you access to a large group of professionals with whom you can network. Because these professionals are alumni of Suffolk, they are easily approachable and can help you begin the networking process in a way that is less threatening.

Summer in Switzerland

by Heather A. Swails

Suffolk, in cooperation with the American College of Switzerland in Leysin, Switzerland, has designed a program that allows Suffolk students to live and study abroad this summer.

Classes begin May 28 and end July 4. The cost for the program is $3,550. This includes two courses worth six credits, a meal plan, dormitory, health and accident insurance, a Swiss Railway pass, a student activity fee, and a general service fee.

Students have the option of taking courses in art history, business,

As you can see, job hunting can be a full-time job if you are taking advantage of all of these resources on a regular basis. The important thing is to stay ahead of the competition. And if the competition is at home reading the Sunday Globe and bemoaning the fact that they aren't finding anything appropriate to apply to, and you're out there talking with professionals and reading the latest news in your field, then you will stay ahead of the competition and your efforts will eventually land you the job you want!

languages, history, and international political studies.

The program is not just academic. It also includes field trips to the Hague, Geneva, and the European Economic Community in Brussels.

Classes are held just four days each week, Monday through Thursday. This allows students to take advantage of traveling throughout Europe. The American College of Switzerland offers organized student tours to Nice, on the Riviera, Rome and the Vatican, Paris, and Munich.

Students interested in spending their summer abroad should contact Dean of Enrollment Management Marguerite Dennis at the One Beacon St. building, floor 25.

Another slap in the face

As if our money problems weren't enough already, Suffolk has laid another one on the students of this university. You guessed it—another year, another (gulp) tuition hike.

Perhaps it was too much to expect that the recession would count for much when the time came to decide about a tuition increase. After all, we can pick up some more work hours and squeeze out those few extra tuition dollars, right? Our parents can re-finance the family's humble shelter and come up with those few extra tuition dollars, can't they?

As it is, many students are already putting in their limit on work hours. They have to study and go to class, too. Adding on a few more hours at work might mean going to school part-time, and, for some, even leaving school. Some students reduced their status to part-time last year because they couldn't meet the 1990-91 tuition increase. The 1991-92 increase, then, does nothing for them.

For students who have the leeway to add on a few more hours at work, there is the problem of convincing the company. Companies are cutting corners wherever they can in order to save money. Allowing an employee to add on a few more hours means more wages for that person—wages which the company doesn't have or isn't willing to expend.

Some students have parents who are providing their tuition. But parents are affected by this recession, too. At another time, a couple hundred dollars wouldn't be that much of a problem. But this is not another time. It is 1991 and the nation is entangled in a serious recession. Now, how can those parents who are barely making ends meet with last year's tuition increase be expected to hand out another few hundred dollars for tuition?

Then there's the scholarships that so many students depend upon. The state is cutting back on financial aid and state scholarships. Suffolk, as of press time, still hadn't even discussed whether or not in-house scholarships were going to be increased the same percentage as the tuition! A lot of good that does for students who depend almost entirely upon those scholarships.

Of course, we do have to realize that Suffolk is feeling the effects of this recession just as much as any other institution. But aren't there better ways of coping with the recession than making it even worse for the people who attend the university? Nobody wanted this increase... nobody can afford it anymore.

H.A. Swails

Letters to the Editor

Thanks Coach Nelson

Dear Editor:

In his address at the opening ceremonies of Suffolk University's new gymnasium, James E. Nelson failed to acknowledge the work of one key person who made it all possible — himself. While acknowledging the work of the Beacon Hill Civic Association, our past and current President and University trustees, the school would not have a gym today were it not for Coach Nelson and the tireless efforts he has put forth into making this dream a reality.

As a former basketball player at Suffolk (captain 1985-86), it has been my privilege to have been associated with Coach Nelson over the past nine years. During this time his efforts to get a gym built had long been underway and seemingly met with an endless supply of roadblocks and apparent dead ends. To a man, it was thought by many that Coach Nelson was fighting a losing battle. We are extremely fortunate that he was not one of them. Indeed, having always stressed dedication and perseverance to his players, it is these two qualities which enabled Coach Nelson to lead the way to giving the school a "home."

For future Suffolk student-athletes, the gym will be considered to be a normal part of the University's structure. In speaking for all Suffolk basketball alumni, however, we will always know what a remarkable achievement this is and we thank Coach Nelson for it. I suggest that our current student body do the same.

Sincerely,
Paul J. Vaccaro
Suffolk University Basketball Team, 1982-86

At the SGA

by Lisa Masciarelli

This semester has already been a successful one for you, the students. Many of the programs that students have suggested to S.G.A. are working on campus. Here is an update and also information on how you can be part of S.G.A.

RECYCLING

Suffolk University took a big step on February 19 by beginning a long awaited recycling program. We know of the benefits of recycling and now it is time to do it. We are asking everyone to get involved. Right now there are approximately 22 aluminum can recycling barrels and 25 paper bins evenly scattered throughout the campus. Please take advantage of them. Instead of throwing out the cans just drop them in the convenient bins. All offices and departments around campus have bins to recycle paper. If you have any questions please contact the S.G.A. office.

SMOKING POLICY

The University in the past year has made an effort to incorporate recommendations from all aspects of the community. The committee needed to formulate a policy that would also abide by Massachusetts State Law of the Clean Indoor Air Law which states that smoking is prohibited in high traffic areas in the building. With these laws and recommendations from the committee the following amendments have been approved:

1. The location of the designated smoking areas in stairwells will be eliminated in all buildings effective July 1, 1991.
2. The location of the designated smoking area in the new Ridgeway building is the Forensics Lounge on the fourth floor. The room is not to be used for smoking while it is being used for meetings. (During those times there is no smoking in the building.) Vice/President Treasurer Flannery will present the recommendation to the committee for a smoke free campus effective July 1, 1993. However, School of Management faculty have proposed a smoke free policy for the Sawyer building on July 1, 1992. If you have any questions or concerns on the smoking please contact your S.G.A. representative.

S.G.A. ELECTIONS OF 1991-1992

Right now there are nomination papers available in the Student Activities Office for NEXT YEARS Class Officers. If you are interested in running for a class position just pick up your nomination papers and follow the guidelines of the election packet. Dates to remember are: Nomination papers are due back Friday, March 8, 1991; Nomination Speeches are Thursday, March 21, 1991 at 1:00 P.M. in S927; Elections will take place in Sawyer Lobby April 1-4 from 10:00 A.M.-2:00 P.M. The S.G.A. elections will follow in the weeks after the elections.

S.G.A. is not only a way for students to voice their opinions on campus but a way to learn organizational skills, how to begin major projects as recycling, acquire leadership skills and key experience that you can carry into the work force. If you have any questions please contact Lisa Masciarelli, S.G.A. President.

NEW CLUBS ON CAMPUS

Currently, the Student Judiciary Review Board (S.J.R.B.) (S.G.A.'s judicial branch) has been working with reactivating and new clubs and organizations on campus. Some of the new clubs that are already been approved have been the Archer Fellows, Suffolk University Hispanic Association and Student Organized Against Racism. The clubs that have been working with S.J.R.B. for approval are the Mountaineering Club, History Club, Philosophy Society and the Communications and Journalism Club just to mention a few. If you have any interest in these clubs please contact the Student Activities Office.

TUITION

In the coming days the University should be announcing the increase in tuition for next year. To be realistic we should expect an increase with the state of the economy and all the new facilities at Suffolk. It is hard for all of us to see an increase however, since Suffolk in 94% tuition dependable it is hard not to expect the increase. We will keep you informed as soon as we receive information from the University on the increase.

As a note for all of you to keep in mind is that applications for Financial Aid are due back by March 1, 1991 at the Financial Aid Office Sawyer Building Eighth floor. There are also scholarship programs as the Trustees Ambassador, Orientation/Registration Scholars, Ballotti Learning Center, Grandfathered Tuition and Family Discount Plan and an External Scholarship Book available in the F.A. Office.

ATTENTION SENIORS

Now that May 26th is approaching we can begin to think about how can we help Suffolk after we leave and not just with money. There is a problem here on campus that is called the Alumni Admission Ambassador Program. All you would have to do is donate 10 hours a YEAR towards recruiting new students interested in Suffolk and tell them what Suffolk has to offer for them. Share your secret of success with them. It is a great way to show your pride in your alma mater by sharing the others the Suffolk spirit. If you want to participate or just want some information please contact Linda Goggin at extension 8647.

ETC...ETC...

Some of things you want to look out for in the next few weeks are: Nominations for the Program Council Board 1991-2, there is a need for volunteer to help out at graduation contact Marjorie Hewitt in the Student Activities Office, there will be a laser show in the C. Walsh Theatre on March 28, 1991, the Temple Street Fair will be on April 18 and the S.G.A. Newsletter will be out in the next few weeks. If you have any questions please contact the S.G.A. Office.

A Word of Thanks A Word of Anger

Opinions advocated by Captain Avatar in his columns are not necessarily the opinions advocated by the editors and staff of the Suffolk Journal.

by Captain Avatar

Well, it's that time again. Break out the copy machines and tape recorders. I'm about to thank a fraternity (can you believe it?!). Specifically, Phi Sigma Sigma. Their efforts toward supporting our troops in the Middle East with their "Supplies Drive" in the Sawyer Cafe proved to me that they've got their priorities straight. At first, my crew members reported back to me that they doubted Phi Sig's sincerity towards supporting our troops. As Phi Sig's drive continued, they became more aware of what they were doing and took a mature approach to helping our guys and gals in the Middle East. In fact, they intend to extend the drive another week! My crew members tell me it will probably be the week that you read this article.

You gals at Phi Sigma Sigma accepted my request for helping our troops in some way and along with me and my crew, hopefully we will show our troops that they do indeed have our support! Too bad SGA, the Program Council and the numerous student unions and associations couldn't assist you in your efforts and demonstrate that they have some maturity in their bones. After all, I can understand why they can't help. SGA is busy organizing an election with nobody running for office. Program Council is too busy organizing a dating game rat. As for the student unions, who knows what the hell they're doing? It's good to see those groups have their priorities straight.

Therefore, once again, I request that everyone from Suffolk do their part to support our troops in the Middle East. Get your priorities straight and help our guys and gals in the Middle East. Even if the fighting has already started (and let's hope it never does), contribute what you can to the "Supplies Drive." A listing of supplies needed can be obtained in the Student Activities Office or just pick up a listing the week the drive is in effect on the 3rd floor Sawyer Cafe.

I've got to ask one thing of Phi Sigma Sigma. Is TKE serious about helping you with the drive? Or do they just want their name next to yours? And by the way, who's idea was it to include TKE? I ask because several of my crew members have interviewed people close to this drive and reported back to me that TKE is only supporting the drive because they HAVE to...not because they WANT to.

I reserve the right, however, to withdraw my praise for Phi Sigma Sigma if word gets back to me that they have hazing policies that humiliate new "pledges" who want to join their fraternity. Now you tough guys at TKE wouldn't know of any frat that does that, would you?

That ends my word of thanks. And now comes the word of anger (WARNING: Some of the following material may not be appropriate for rich kids who get their education paid for by mommy and daddy. It's only for those of us who pay our own way and bust our butt because we want to attend Suffolk and do well.)

Surprise! Tuition is up and boy its getting expensive. As usual, its always those of us who pay our own way who get screwed the most. Welcome to Suffolk.

It's hard to believe. Here we're in a recession. A lot of people are out of work and all of you seniors graduating this spring are in for a surprise when you can't find any work (that includes you know-it-alls with GPA's above 3.5 that think you're the greatest thing since the Patriot missile). Not to mention, everyone is cutting back their purchases and things get scarier every day for the average working family.

And just what does Suffolk do in support of its students? It raises their tuition. Thanks for nothing, guys!

Save the speech about the increase in financial aid and the "fact" that we are "still" the most inexpensive private institution. Baloney! I've heard this garbage every year that I've been here, and I really hear it every time tuition goes up. Could the powers-that-be at Suffolk please come up with a more justified reason for the annual slap in the face we get? Tell us the REAL reason for the increase. I think Suffolk students (most of them anyway) are mature enough to handle it. Tell us why, because if these increases keep up, a lot of students will leave for UMASS and points north. Then, what will Suffolk do?

Remember my first article about speaking up? Now's the best time of all! Have your voices heard! Speak (or yell, if they won't listen) to the dean, your professors, everybody! Tell them you demand to know the real reason for the increase! After all, isn't it your right to know? I mean, it IS your money!!

Just like the typical priest usually states before beginning that ceremony of matrimony, SPEAK NOW, OR FOREVER HOLD YOUR PEACE!!

Suffolk's study abroad program

by Sandra Giannato

One look at Arthur Chiasson, professor of humanities and modern languages, with his blue, European-style smock, will make you think of things foreign.

Chiasson is the chairman of the Study Abroad Program and the coordinator of Project SAFARI (Study at Foreign Academically Recognized Institutions), a loan program for Suffolk students wishing to study abroad.

An experienced traveler himself, Chiasson has studied at the University of Montreal and the University of Paris in addition to either living in or visiting France, Canada, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Switzerland and Italy.

During his teaching career he has been host professor to many students who studied in Paris.

At Suffolk, where the Study Abroad Program has been in effect for the past 20 years, Chiasson was appointed to the committee by the dean and eventually rose to his present position of chairman.

According to Chiasson, students are able to pursue studies at any accredited university in the world. Most students, he said, prefer to go to England, France, Italy, Spain, Mexico, Switzerland or Canada.

An average of 12 Suffolk students participate in the program each year.

While news reports indicate that foreign travel by U.S. citizens has declined markedly because of the war in the Gulf, Chiasson maintained that it should not affect a student's plans to study abroad.

"Students shouldn't be too worried and should not overreact because Europe is do-able," he said.

Suffolk's Study Abroad Program is a great opportunity for students. Language majors will find that going to a country and using the language they are studying is one of the best ways to learn the language. Students are also able to learn more about their own culture.

Naturally, there are some disadvantages. Culture shock is one. It takes time to adjust, but what one learns and experiences during a semester abroad can never be forgotten.

"Don't put it off," Chiasson said.

Planning and carrying out a study abroad program is not difficult. There are four main steps that should be taken.

First, find a program. There is a file on everything available in Fenton 436.

Next, speak with your academic advisor.

Then, check with the consulate of the country which you are interested in. Many have brochures and information for students.

Finally, see Chiasson to apply for a SAFARI loan and check to see if your financial aid or scholarships can be applied to it.

Most important, students must see Dean Sartwell to obtain permission to study outside Suffolk and to be able to transfer credits back into Suffolk from the foreign school.

Bon voyage to all students who decide to take advantage of the Study Abroad Program.
