Cuts fit into 'plan'

By Kathy Joyce

The Suffolk Theatre Company will hold a dress rehearsal of 'Cuts fit into plan' by playwright Edward Albee on Thursday, September 14. The play, which opened last night at the theatre, is directed by Armand Balas and stars J. Paul Yarborough, Lisa York, and Peter Hedges.

The play is about a family that is torn apart by a decision made by the father to cut off his son's allowance.

The Suffolk Theatre Company is a non-profit organization that produces professional theatre in the Greater Boston area.

New coverage introduced

by Kimberly Barret

The Suffolk Theatre Company has introduced a new coverage plan that includes a subscription to the weekly 'Suffolk Theatre Company Preview' newsletter.

The newsletter will be sent to subscribers every Thursday, featuring information about upcoming events at the theatre, as well as reviews and interviews with artists involved in the productions.

The subscription plan is available for $30 per year, and can be purchased online at the theatre's website.

At this early in the business season, the theatre is hoping to attract more patrons to its productions in order to support the arts in the community.

Recycled clothing stores can save $$$
By Joseph Mankadine

Recycled clothing stores are all the rage these days. They've been around for some time, but now they're becoming more popular than ever. The reason is simple: they're good for the environment. When you buy clothes from a recycled clothing store, you're not only saving money, but you're also helping to reduce the amount of waste that ends up in landfills.

But not all recycled clothing stores are created equal. Some are better than others. Here are some tips on how to find the best.

1. Look for stores that have been in business for a while. These stores have had time to develop a reputation for quality and service.
2. Check out the store's return policy. If a store is willing to take back clothes that don't fit, you know they're serious about customer satisfaction.
3. Ask for recommendations from friends or family. They might have a favorite recycled clothing store that they love.
4. Check online reviews. You can read what other customers have to say about a store before you go.

More computers — ugh!
by Linda Treadmill

With the increase in the number of computers in homes and businesses, it's no surprise that computer repair has become a popular business. However, not all computer repair businesses are created equal. Some are better than others.

1. Look for stores that have been in business for a while. These stores have had time to develop a reputation for quality and service.
2. Check out the store's return policy. If a store is willing to take back computers that don't work, you know they're serious about customer satisfaction.
3. Ask for recommendations from friends or family. They might have a favorite computer repair business that they love.
4. Check online reviews. You can read what other customers have to say about a store before you go.
