The drinking age in Montreal is 18, and proper ID is required everywhere. At the border and through customs, expect all ID’s to be checked. The trip is still open (for more info, contact Michelle Capano). Oct. 2nd is the deadline for those going. However, deposits.

The most important item on Lusso’s “wish list” (which he sent to Schmidt), is a “series 1000” furniture system, which will house equipment such as turntables and cassette decks. The cost of the furniture is $3,632. This expenditure alone exceeds Lusso’s budget.

Other items on the list, which total $5,995 include: engineering, $180; record racks, $1,023; one “on air” light, $60; and one eight channel stereo mixer, $980. Of the stereo mixer, Lusso said: “We were wishing hard that day.”

According to Schmidt, bids have been made for the furniture and record racks. Wiring is “on schedule,” she said and cafeterias hook-up should be finished in two weeks. She added that the work on the new building and the studio engineering should be in progress within the next four weeks.

Lusso is getting “less and less optimistic” about the radio station’s completion, although “I’m going to hold every thing in my power to push the issue,” he said.

“I’m starting to feel pressure from the students. People are asking ‘when, when, when?’” he said.

Lusso said he is frustrated, but conceded, “Actually, I’m learning a lot putting the station together. It’s somewhat fun, it’s somewhat frustrating. We’re starting from the bottom up.”

WSFR to be On-Air in 3 to 4 Weeks

I think it’s absurd that we’re not wired.” No, Joe Lusso is not talking about drugs. The Suffolk University senior, who serves as the station manager of WSFR (Suffolk Free Radio), currently, there’s not much of a station to manage.

Located in the student activities center, WSFR is not yet operational. Part of the problem, said Lusso, is that the newly constructed building was never wired to transmit WSFR’s “airwaves.”

(In the Ridgeway Lane Student Activities building, which was recently torn down, each office had a speaker and volume control to hear WSFR’s broadcast.)

However, Director of Student Activities Donna Schmidt has said that WSFR should be on the air in four to six weeks.

The most important item on Lusso’s “wish list” (which he sent to Schmidt), is a “series 1000” furniture system, which will house equipment such as turntables and cassette decks. The cost of the furni-ture is $3,632. This expenditure alone exceeds Lusso’s budget.

Other items on the list, which total $5,995 include: engineering, $180; record racks, $1,023; one “on air” light, $60; and one eight channel stereo mixer, $980. Of the stereo mixer, Lusso said: “We were wishing hard that day.”

The drinking age in Montreal is 18, and proper ID is required everywhere. At the border and through customs, expect all ID’s to be checked. The trip is still open (for more info, contact Michelle Capano in Student Activities). Oct. 2nd is the deadline for those going. However, places are not guaranteed for late deposits.

Friends attending different colleges, may accompany SU students. However, the Suffolk student is responsible for the conduct of the person and all consequences will be suffered by the Suffolk student.

While in Montreal, activities are completely up to individuals, said Capano. There is no schedule to keep or events everyone must attend. Most important, “college students should act like responsible adults,” said Capano.

AHANA: Latest Acronym to Classify People of Color

by Patricio G. Caramapo-Tapia

Dr. Sharon Artis, assistant to the president and director of minority affairs, in a reception held last week, welcomed all the new and continuing minority students at Suffolk University. Artis also introduced “AHANA,” (African-American, Hispanic, Asian and Native American) the latest acronym designed to classify people of color.

Artis expressed his aspiration to use this term as a substitute to any other term which might subordinate a person by its use. For instance, the term “minority” might suggest a “less-than” significance.

Thus, Artis proposed the new term to the group as a way to standardize the classification of students who are non-Caucasian.

The reception was well attended by an integrated crowd of Suffolk’s hierarchy, faculty, administrators, and students — now AHANA — members of the university community.

It was followed by a short speech by new president Sargent, who reiterated “...how absolutely essential it is to make people from different cultures to feel welcomed.” Sargent acknowledged the great significance and valuable contribution that AHANA people can offer to the university. “Their presence is the future of our school,” he said. Lastly, Sargent emphasized his support and plans to make Suffolk’s AHANA members an integral part of the school.

Artis also enthusiastically introduced the creation of the “Native American Association,” open to everybody who wants to be a member, regardless of ethnicity or cultural background.

AHANA was created in 1979 by students at Boston College who were opposed to the diminishing potential of ethnic classification terminology.

SGA Working on Tuition Proposals

by Adam Mendoca

One of the orders of business at Tuesday’s SGA meeting was the “Grandfathered Tuition Plan for Meritorious Students.” The plan is a carry-over from last year’s tuition proposal. The proposal was made for any student who returns in September with a GPA of 3.0 or higher to be charged the 1989-90 tuition rate. This would make the students exempt from any tuition increases.

The plan would only be available only to full-time undergraduate students (12 or more credits per semester), who have achieved a GPA of 3.0 or higher for the prior academic year with no D, F, or incomplete grades.

SGA is promoting this pilot program in the hopes of keeping tuition costs manageable and getting students to improve their GPA.

The proposal is currently being considered by several committees, and revisions may be made before the next SGA meeting, when the plan will be discussed further and perhaps put to a vote.

The other major object of discussion was the budget for the 1989-90 school year. Treasurer Tony J. Frederico handed out the budget which total $104,000. SGA, whose proposed budget was $13,000, was appropriated $12,424; Beacon Yearbook received $16,791; Program Council $50,000; and Council of Presidents received $24,785 dollars.

The funds were divided in these approximate percentages: SGA 11.9%; Beacon Yearbook 16.1%; PC 48.1%; and COP 23%.

Like business Lisa Masciarelli moved to merge the Student Services Committee and the Public Relations Committee. The motion passed unanimously. The committee will be called the Student Relations Committee. The co-chairs of the committee are Marybeth Sweeney and Kim Browne.

PC: No More Bus Rides to Hell

by Viki Bernard

Some of the parents whose kids went on last year’s trip to Montreal are still in court, suing the travel company for the amount it cost them to bring their kids home, after they were left at the Canadian border. Conduct was reportedly unacceptable on the bus, so the students were left to find their own way home.

People who went on the trip last year said that a lot of the activities involved alcohol, resulting in the bad conduct of the students. In all actuality, was it right to leave them at the border with no transportation home? Their parents say no.

Michelle Capano, Social Chairperson of the Program Council, and a junior at Suffolk, has high expectations for the creation of the “Native American Association,” open to everybody who wants to be a member, regardless of ethnicity or cultural background.

“Friends attending different colleges, may accompany SU students. However, the Suffolk student is responsible for the conduct of the person and all consequences will be suffered by the Suffolk student.”

According to Schmidt, bids have been made for the furniture and record racks. Wiring is “on schedule,” she said and cafeterias hook-up should be finished in two weeks. She added that the work on the new building and the studio engineering should be in progress within the next four weeks.

Federal Aid Drops, Tuition Rises

Tuition increases during the 1980s have easily outrun students' resources to pay for school, the College Board said recently.

While tuition has rocketed 56% at private four-year colleges and 30.2% at public four-year campuses since 1980, the total amount of student aid increased only 10.5%, the New York-based group found.

Families, moreover, weren't earning that much more money to make up the difference. After allowing for inflation, the College Board figured average of 5-to-9 percent from a year ago. Suffolk's tuition rose 7.2%, effective this semester.

The federal government's diminishing role helped spur the tuition increases, the College Board's report indicated. Federal student aid dropped from 83% of all grant and scholarship money available to 75% this year.

At the same time, state aid grew only from 5% to 6% of the help available. Campuses had to increase the amount they gave to students — from 12 to 19% of the aid money used to pay for tuition.

"There is some question about whether schools can continue to increase that aid indefinitely," said the College Board's Gwendolyn Lewis. To offer more aid, she added, schools would have to raise tuition even more rapidly. Increasing student aid and keeping tuition down "are directly in conflict."

WSFR Station Manager Joe Lusso in his new office.

"It's going to give our students an edge in the market if they can gain experience, and the radio station is a way to do this," said Dr. Vicki Karns, professor of Communications. "So obviously the radio station's operation is important."

Schmidt also said that one reason for the delay was a needed sensitivity to who was working in the building due to union presence. She added that the building did not become the property of the university until the end of August.

A conduit system is in place in the new building, according to Schmidt. She explained that the huge pipe system would facilitate wiring offices.

WSFR, like the other media groups, is funded by the university. Although the cost of completing the radio station is high, "the university is willing to make this investment," said Schmidt.

At least Lusso has a sense of humor about the situation, "No one hangs out because you can't smoke and you can't listen to [WSFR] music. No one wants to be in our office. WSFR is going to have to buy boom boxes for everyone," he laughed.

Anti-Abortion Lecture Attracts Six Students
by Josè J. Santos

Attended by six people, the Political Science Association sponsored the lecture Abortion in which Ann Fox, volunteer of the Massachusetts Citizens For Life, pointed out her organization's reasons to oppose abortion under any circumstances. "Abortion is — plainly — murder," she said.

Fox, who described the different political tools used by pro-life groups since the 1973 Roe v. Wade decision to legalize abortion, based her argument on the "biological fact that life begins at the moment of conception," she said.

"The concern of pro-life activists is to protect human life," Fox said. On the contrary, the pro-choice movement, Fox pointed out, has no concern for human life because it allows "to take away a baby's life."

"What I am talking about is regard for life," she said. This was immediately confronted by the argument of legally regulating abortion to protect the life of women who decide to terminate their pregnancy.

"The role of government is to protect human life, and imposing the opinion of some people over the entire society is incorrect," according to Fox, the majority of the society abhor the "murder, . . . the killing of babies who are not given even the chance to live."

Fox stressed that prohibiting abortion is not necessarily an intervention with privacy. "Almost every law interferes with people's privacy," Fox said.

Fox stressed the importance of lobbying at both state and national level to prohibit abortion. "The bottom line is the respect for human life," she said.

Tuition Costs a Problem

by Gary Christenson

"Tuition, even at a low-cost private institution like Suffolk University, has become a financial problem for many low and middle-income families. Yearly increases in tuition, no matter how modest, place additional financial pressure on students and parents." The Student Government Association recognizes the fact that tuition is the single most important issue facing colleges and universities in the next decade.

We will not sit back on this issue. SGA is getting ready to take up two proposals to offset tuition increase for 1990-91. The discussion and debate of these proposals will take place tomorrow at 1 p.m. in 524. We would like your comments and suggestions on these proposals.

The first proposal is the "Grandfathered Tuition Plan for Meritorious Students." It would be a pilot program that would entitle any student who returns to Suffolk University in September with a GPA of 3.3 or better to be charged at the 1989-90 tuition rate. The discussion and debate of these proposals will take place tomorrow at 1 p.m. in 524. We would like your comments and suggestions on these proposals.

The second proposal is the "Student Phone-a-Thon Callers Tuition Rebate Program." Students would contribute to the fundraising efforts of the University. Students would not be paid on an hourly basis, but would receive a percentage of any funds in the form of a tuition rebate. Rebates would be applied only after the funding is received from the donor. 20% of all donations received through Student Phone-a-thon callers would be divided equally among that evening's (or day's) callers in the form of tuition rebates. A $50.00 bonus for soliciting each new donor will also be included in each night's "pot."

In the end, only together can the trustees, administration, faculty, and students truly plan ways to offset tuition increases. But students must take the lead as it is our stake that is in the greatest in the rise of tuition.
Affirmative Action: Reverse Discrimination

To the Editor:

This is in reply to the editorial by Jose Santos. He was upset over the lack of "Affirmative Action" in the Advisory Committee to the Board of Trustees in their interviews for a new Suffolk University president.

Well, apparently the committee was not aware of any minority candidates that had qualifications comparable to David Sargent's. I'm sure the committee would have considered any comparably qualified candidate, regardless of their color or sex. It seems to be the fad now to yell "racism!" whenever a minority is not given "special" consideration.

I believe in truly equal rights. A person should be judged on their merits and not given any special consideration because they are white, black, yellow, purple, or female. Discrimination is wrong, but so is reverse discrimination. "Affirmative Action" is reverse discrimination and should be abolished for a fairer system.

Applauds Article

To The Editor:

Upon perusing Suffolk Journal's article encompassing a male prostitute's evening, I asked myself whether or not this style of journalism is appropriate for a school newspaper. Is this the kind of topic Suffolk students take interest in? Well, I must say that Jose Santos's article has the potential to create much campus controversy. I've heard several comments ranging in emotions from disinterest, disgust, adversity to profanity, and questions regarding the article's pertinence to Suffolk life.

After spending much time pondering the significance of Jose's article, I came to the conclusion that, this is just the sort of thing Suffolk University and its Journal need to create a little spark in an otherwise dull campus climate. This is the type of reporting that journalism is all about, human life. Although many of these kinds of topics may be adverse to people's feelings, they are also crucial in the purveyance of real life information. There is too much in life that goes ignored. Reporting of this sort, if paid attention to, can prevent the uninformed from making false claims and accusations. Thus, I applaud you Jose, keep up the good work.

Sincerely,
Joel Portmann

Expedite WSFR's Completion

Suffolk students are beginning to get pretty upset with the non-operational status of SU's student-run radio station, WSFR. Disc jockeys are anxious to get back in the station and students (well, most of them) are waiting for their building— the student activities center—to be filled, once again, with the diverse musical offerings of WSFR.

Even Director of Student Activities Donna Schmidt's promise of on-air status in four to six weeks has not impressed some. They know that universities have the wicked disease known as bureaucracy. Of course, Suffolk is not immune to it.

Joe Lusso, WSFR's station manager, has promised to do everything in his power to "push the issue." In addition to attending classes and his internship he's been working diligently to do just that.

Although student activities at SU are strong, it is rare to find someone with Lusso's talent and willingness. He will graduate in May, leaving the university with a quality radio station, due to his willingness to push.

The university must expedite this process and try to avoid the red-tape death grip. Joe Lusso, and his DJ's actually benefit from their hard work and be able to spin a few disks before the semester is over.

Regulation May Be Key for Abortion Safety

Abortion has been widely discussed in the media, university campuses and by activists in favor of and against it. Many argue that life begins at the moment of conception; others disagree. Some proclaim the respect for human life should be the force leading to a final conclusion regarding the delicate and emotional issues of abortion. Until both sides really analyze the situation, there will be no rational solution to the conflict.

A common ground upon which the two factions stand is human life; something both must realize, it is comprehendible the Pro-life activists' argument of life begins at conception. According to this view, a termination of pregnancy at any time would be "killing" a life. However, what divine right do Pro-life supporters have to impose this perspective on other people? What about the women who decide to have an abortion out of weighty reasons? Should they be granted a safe abortion through the legal regulation of it?

The abortion procedure, therefore must be regulated as to ensure the safety of women who opt for it. However, this regulation should be coordinated with a massive and progressive program of sexual education in the classroom, both in private and public school, starting at the very beginning of the child's school life. Abortion must be understood, not as another birth control mechanism used arbitrarily, but as a way of eliminating pregnancy because of rape, incest, or economical reasons. Women must have the right to decide upon their own bodies. No man or woman has the power to forcibly impose any view on anyone, much less on one's body.

Abortion is a sensitive issue not to be taken impulsively. It is time to start thinking not only about the lives of the unborn, but also about the lives and safety of the women who choose to have an abortion.

Women’s Cross Country Team
by Michael Scafidi

The women’s cross country team continued their improvement last Saturday when they placed third out of seven teams in the Shucklette Invitational held at St. Anselms College. This was their highest placement ever and they received a plaque and trophy as a reward for their efforts.

The first and second place finishers were St. Anselms and Bryant College—both Division II schools. Finishing in fourth was Regis College who beat Suffolk in their last meet.

“Improvement like that usually does not happen in just one week. It usually takes three to four weeks,” coach Joe Walsh quipped.

UMass Destroys Suffolk Soccer Team
by Michael Scafidi

The Suffolk University Rams soccer team was blown off the playing field last Saturday by a far superior UMass Boston team by a score of 11-1. All the team could do after the game was stand there in a total daze trying to comprehend what had just happened.

Suffolk got a taste of what they were in for when UMass scored two goals just minutes after the start of the game. From that point on, UMass was all over the Suffolk defense.

Suffolk cut the lead in half with an Erin Galligan score on a booming pass from goalie Brian Dailey. But this was as close as they would get, because UMass forced the Suffolk floodgates wide open after that point. By the end of the first half Suffolk found themselves behind 5-1.

At the beginning of the second half UMass picked up where they left off in attacking the Suffolk defenders. UMass got off a barrage of shots which went into the Suffolk goal.

In that second half Suffolk only managed to get into the UMass end two or three times. Towards the end of the game UMass blew four goals past the defenseless Suffolk netminder to complete the game’s 11-1 score.

The top runner for Suffolk was once again John Locke, who finished 12th overall with a time of 36:03.

First Victory For Women’s Tennis
by Ross Neville

The Suffolk women’s tennis team recorded their first victory in five tries this season with a resounding 7-1 defeat of Wentworth College last Wednesday afternoon at Charles River Park. The win came after three successive losses: 9-0 at Pine Manor; 7-2 at Curry College and a loss Monday at Regis, 8-1.

Andrea Smithson won her singles match in convincing style: 6-0, 6-0, as did Mary McGuirk, again in straight love sets.

After the match, Smithson remarked, “I wish they were all that easy.” She added that she is feeling optimistic about the team’s chances after the first win.

“There are teams remaining on our schedule that we should be able to beat,” she said.

In doubles, Rene Mello, who joined the team last week after her first match, teamed with Theresa Prisco for a 7-5, 6-1 win, cementing the match for Suffolk.

Tennis Team Wins 6-3
by Ross Neville

The Suffolk women’s tennis team recorded their second victory of the season last Friday at Anna Maria College in Worcester. The final score was 6-3.

In doubles, played on a pro-set basis (first team to 10 points), Suffolk came out on top 4-2 after wins by Andrea Smithson, Sarah Kelly, Ann Sheehan, and Mary McGuirk. In the doubles competition, Smithson teamed with McGuirk and Kelly paired with Sheehan to record victories which put the match away for Suffolk. The only loss in doubles was a tough 10-8 match with Rene Mello and Theresa Prisco on the losing end despite a great effort.

The team has now doubled their victory output of a year ago when they finished 1 and 7. With some very winnable matches upcoming on the schedule this could be a successful season for coach Levenson and the women.

Athletes Footnotes
by Michael Scafidi

Even though the Fall sports season is under way Suffolk is always looking for additional athletes. Show some school spirit. For any information see Coach Nelson in the Athletic office which is located at the end of Temple St. or call ext. 8379.

Places Third

UMass Destroyed Suffolk soccer team dropped a 3-0 decision to Wheaton College. The team record is now 1 win, 3 losses.

There will be a mandatory team meeting for hockey and basketball coming up. The hockey team will meet Wednesday, October 4 at 3:30 p.m. in Sawyer 927 and basketball will meet at 11:00 p.m. on October 5 in Sawyer 1121.
