Ashburton Building space proposal unveiled today

A proposal calling for a student union, a pub, and athletic facilities to be incorporated into the expansion plans for the Ashburton Place building has been drafted by the Student Government Association (SGA) campus expansion committee.

The committee proposal will be presented to the Board of Trustees Building Committee today by committee member William Schneidler, Linda Delmonico, and Carolyn Plochar.

The proposal's objective is to provide a central gathering place for students and faculty and to enhance the social and academic life at Suffolk.

The proposal includes the following elements:

1. A student union
2. A pub
3. Athletic facilities

The proposal has been developed in response to the need for additional space on campus and to improve the quality of student life.
Alumni funds expected to rise—again

By Bob Ford

A sharp increase in alumni contributions and enrollment is expected to raise the alumni fund to a record level of $20 million, according to the University of Massachusetts Alumni Association. The fund has increased steadily over the past five years and currently holds $10 million. The association plans to use the funds to support scholarships, programs, and other initiatives.

Busines dean stressed teaching qualities

by Annette Belcourt

Professors should be hired on the basis of their teaching abilities, not their research backgrounds, Suffolk Professor of Accounting and Business Administration Joseph Brown said.

"Give me any professor who is not a great teacher, and I'll tell you where his research is," Brown said. "The students put a lot of emphasis on what he can do as a teacher; it's important that a professor can interact with them and help them understand the course material."

Brown believes that the students are the ones who really benefit from the teacher's skills, and that a good teacher can help students succeed in business.

"The students are the ones who will be working in the field, not the professor," Brown said. "If a professor can't teach, then he's not doing his job."

Tampa Bay is the cream pies be flying at?

The Suffolk Journal/Dec. 7, 1976

Who will the cream pies be flying at?

This subject is generally not the kind of thing people would like to discuss in public. However, the cream pies question has become a popular topic at Suffolk University. The question basically asks: "Who will be able to fly the cream pies at the Tampa Bay airport?"

The Cream Pie Flying competition is a yearly event held at the Tampa Bay airport. Students from Suffolk University are invited to participate in the competition. The objective is to see who can fly the cream pies with the greatest distance and accuracy.

The question of who will be able to fly the cream pies at the Tampa Bay airport has sparked much debate among students and faculty. Some have speculated that it may be a student, while others believe it will be a faculty member or even the president of the university.

The Suffolk Journal staff has decided to investigate the matter further and will be conducting interviews with various students and faculty members to determine the identity of the individual who will be able to fly the cream pies at the Tampa Bay airport.

MEXICAN DANCER—dancers also noted for the beauty of their costumes. The Cancan style, for example, is a form of dance that originated in France, but has been adapted and modified in many styles worldwide. It is a dance that emphasizes the expressive power of the dancer, and the costume is an integral part of the performance, often featuring elaborate and colorful designs. One such style is the Cancan, which is characterized by its energetic and acrobatic movements, as well as the elaborate costumes worn by the dancers. These costumes are often designed to be eye-catching and to reflect the cultural and social context in which the dance is performed. For example, the Cancan costume might feature bright colors and intricate patterns, which are meant to draw attention and to convey the sense of the dance as a celebration of life and vitality. At a recent performance, the Cancan dancers were adorned with elaborate headdresses and costumes, and their movements were synchronized with the music and the movements of their partners. The result was a mesmerizing display of skill and artistry, as the dancers moved in unison and with great energy.

Another exhibit becomes a gold mine from the continent of Africa. It is a collection of textiles that have been collected over the years, and which are now on display in a gallery. The textiles include a variety of colors and patterns, and are made from a variety of materials, such as cotton, silk, and wool. The collection is meant to provide a glimpse into the rich culture and history of Africa, and to highlight the diversity of its textile traditions. The exhibit includes a range of textiles, such as traditional African fabrics, as well as more modern designs that incorporate traditional elements. The textiles are displayed in a variety of settings, such as on a wall, on a table, or on a mannequin. The exhibit also includes a collection of African masks, which were created for religious and cultural purposes, and which are now highly prized by collectors. The masks are made from a variety of materials, such as wood, metal, and fabric, and are decorated with intricate designs and patterns. The exhibit is meant to provide a sense of the rich cultural and artistic heritage of Africa, and to encourage a deeper understanding and appreciation of this diverse and fascinating continent.

Rams lose to Hawks

By Jay Horwath

It was the last game of the regular season for the Rams, and they were hoping to clinch a spot in the NCAA tournament. The University of Maryland defeated the Rams 111-101, sending them to the Big Ten tournament again. The Rams were hoping to make a run, but the game was over before they even had a chance to start. The Hawks would go on to win the Big Ten tournament and make it to the NCAA tournament, while the Rams would be left out.

Despite the Rochester's 88-74 victory over the Hawks on Saturday, the Rams were unable to claim the Big Ten title. The Hawks had too much firepower, as they were able to score 69 points in the second half. The Rams, on the other hand, were only able to score 46 points in the second half, and were unable to keep up with the Hawks' scoring.

The game was full of moments that would be remembered for years to come. The Hawks' forward, who is known for his blocked shots, blocked a shot from the Rams' center, who was looking to score. The Hawks' guard, who is known for his offensive skills, scored a three-pointer from the outside, and the Rams' guard, who is known for his defensive skills, was unable to stop him.

The Rams' Commentary

Where one fan’s emotions lie

By Ana Martinez

I opened up The Suffolk Journal today, and I was immediately drawn to the front page. The headline read, “Rams lose to Hawks.” I couldn’t believe it. The Rams had been so close to making it to the NCAA tournament, but they had fallen short. I couldn’t help but feel a sense of sadness as I read the article. The Rams had worked so hard all season, and it had all come down to this one game.

I sat there for a while, feeling all the emotions that come with losing. I was angry, I was disappointed, I was sad. But then I thought about all the good things that had come out of the season. The Rams had won more games than they had lost, and they had come so close to making it to the NCAA tournament. I realized that even though they had lost, there was still so much to be grateful for.

I decided to go to the game the next day, and watch the Hawks lose to the Rams. I was determined to show them that even though they had won the first game, they weren’t going to win the next one. I knew it was going to be a tough game, but I was ready for it. I was going to show them that I was a true fan of the Rams, and that I wasn’t going to give up just because they had lost.

I wore my Rams gear, and I was ready to go. I couldn’t wait to see how the Rams would perform in the game. I knew it was going to be a close game, but I was confident in my team. I knew they could win, and I was going to be there every step of the way to support them.
Weekend Roundup
Rams edge Mass. Maritime, dump Nasson

by Joe Pliskett

The Rams returned to action at the weekend with a pair of home games against Mass. Maritime and Nasson. However, both games saw the Rams fall short of victory.

Mass. Maritime

The Rams faced off against Mass. Maritime in the opening game of the weekend. The game started off hot with the Rams scoring a quick goal early in the first period. However, Mass. Maritime responded with a goal of their own to tie the game. The rest of the period saw the teams trading goals, with Mass. Maritime taking a 3-2 lead into the second period.

The second period saw the Rams continue to pressure the opponent, but they were unable to score. Mass. Maritime held onto their lead and added a third goal to take a 5-2 advantage. The Rams tried to mount a comeback in the third period, but it was not enough as Mass. Maritime skated away with a 6-4 victory.

Nasson

The Rams faced off against Nasson in the second game of the weekend. The game started off with the Rams on top, scoring two goals in the first period. However, Nasson responded with a pair of goals to tie the game. The rest of the period saw both teams trading goals, with Nasson taking a 3-2 lead into the second period.

The second period saw the Rams continue to pressure the opponent, but they were unable to score. Nasson held onto their lead and added a third goal to take a 5-2 advantage. The Rams tried to mount a comeback in the third period, but it was not enough as Nasson skated away with a 6-4 victory.
