EDITORIAL

Our Town goes down in history

By Jim Consiglio

The number of movies you can rent is seemingly endless. "Most stores place no limit on the number of movies you can rent," said Student Council representative Mary E. Connolly. "But I think it would be better if they limited the number of movies you can rent per week to three or four. That way you wouldn't have to wait so long to get your next movie."

Still, there's no denying that the number of choices is overwhelming. "It's hard to choose," said Student Council representative John Shearn. "I sometimes end up renting a movie just because it's available."

Some students, however, feel that the number of choices is a good thing. "It's nice to have so many choices," said Student Council representative Richard Onaill. "You can find something for everyone."

Student Council representative John Shearn, however, is not so sure. "I think it's too many," he said. "It's hard to keep track of all the new movies that come out."

Despite the debate, most students agree that the number of choices is a good thing. "It's great," said Student Council representative Mary E. Connolly. "You can always find something new to watch."

But some students feel that the number of choices is a bad thing. "It's too overwhelming," said Student Council representative John Shearn. "I never know what to watch."

The debate continues as students weigh the pros and cons of the number of choices available.

SIDETRACKS

Joining a video club – Check it out first

By Joseph Mastrodore

The number of video clubs on campus is growing. "I think it's great," said Student Council representative Mary E. Connolly. "It's a great way to meet new people and learn about new movies."

But some students are not so sure. "I don't think it's worth it," said Student Council representative John Shearn. "You can always rent a movie on your own."

The debate continues as students decide whether to join a video club or rent their own movies.
A forgettable Friday The 13 Part V

by Joe Stale

The masked demon killer, Jason, has again to stalk victims in Friday the 13th Part V.

Norris returns in Action

by Col. Bradock

The second sequel to the hit film "The Warriors" is now in action.

MUSIC

The Derivatives deserve nothing but the best

by Marlin Clark

One of Bromo's brightest bands, the Derivatives, offers its fans a taste of its new album.

Suffolk to host final SSD show

by Mark Johnson

The SSD will play its final show at Suffolk University.

SPORTS

Roller hockey catching on in the East

by Mike DeMone

Roller hockey is becoming popular in the East.

Norris returns in Action:

Norris is a character in the film "The Warriors".

MUSIC:

The Derivatives are a band from Bromo.

Suffolk to host final SSD show:

The SSD is a music group.

SPORTS:

Roller hockey is a sport that is gaining popularity in the East.
Digney Fignus

Who?
MTV - CBS Recording Artist
Digney Fignus

What?
Autographing Posters, Pictures and Records

Latest E.P.

When?
TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1985

Where?
WSRF Radio Station
Boston Beat with EFS CHROMIUM

Why?
To have a good time — what else!